New Castle Sends Fire Engine To New Wilmington

No. 5 Engine Gets To College Town And Into Action In Quick Time.

LAY LINES OF HOSE AND BATTLE BLAZE

Do Excellent Work But Blaze Had Gained Too Great Start.

New Castle firemen did valiant service in an effort to assist Westminster college to save Old Main destroyed by fire this morning, the cause of which is not known.

It was about 14 minutes to six when the call was received at the Central Fire department asking assistance in fighting the flames in the Old Main at New Wilmington.

Chief Charles H. Lynn informed the person making the call that assitance would be there as soon as possible.

Byron Zeitler was placed at the wheel of Engine No. 5, five minutes after the first call was received and the start was made for New Wilmington by the chief and four firemen.

In spite of the icy condition of the roads the No. 5 engine and its crew were in New Wilmington and had laid 600 feet of hose and the engine was pumping a stream of between 500 and 750 gallons a minute on the flames inside of 30 minutes, which is somewhat of a record.

Had Gained Much Headway.

The fire which had been first discovered about 5 a. m. had gained such headway by this time that even the timely arival of fire fighting forces from this city was of little avail.

The No. 5 pumper was kept pumping continuously until 9:30 a. m. when the building was a mass

Westminster Old Main Historic Building Of Lawrence Co. College

There was no diversity of sentiment in New Castle and Lawrence county today on the part of alumni and former students of Westminster college when the word was flashed around that "Old Main" at Westminster college had burned to the ground.

"Old Main" was the keynote of the college for many years, the one building around which most of the memories of students at Westminster in the past half century cling.

The building was originally erected in 1861, replacing one that had been destroyed by fire.

For many years it was the main college building and practically all of the United Presbyterian school. Later other buildings were added to the college group. The "Old Main" was a three-story brick structure and housed most of the class rooms of the college. It also had the chapel, the library, the business offices, and the halls used by the dramatics classes.

During the administration of the late Dr. R. M. Russell, about 1906 or 1907, a three-story addition was made to the building on the east-earn end, which provided numerous adidtional class rooms. At that time the building was largely remodelled and modernized, hard wood floors being put down and other work being done to bring the structure up to date. Colonial porches were added to the building and it was given a number of distinguishing features in the way of architectural design.

Westminster is this year observing the 75th years of its existence. During the past year a campaign has been in progress for raising funds for the erection of needed additional buildings and plans have been made for the erection of a boys' dormitory.

Flickner Given Prison Sentence For Burning Mill

Man Who Fired J. F. Cole's Mill At Edenburg Gets From 4 to 8 Years In Prison.

OTHER SENTENCES PASSED BY COURT

John Flickner, who recently made a confession to District Attorney J. Elder Bryan and George S. Kennedy, that he had burned the grist mill of Judson F. Cole at Edenburg, entered a plea of guilty to arson before Judge Hildrebrand this morning.

He was sentenced to not less than four nor more than eight years in the Western Penitentiary. Flickner had very little to say, except that he had burned the mill on account of some difficulty with a relative. On a charge of cheating and defrauding a boarding house keeper, Flickner was sentenced to pay $25 fine and costs.

Other sentences passed were as follows: Anna Lacinak, possessing liquor, paroled for two years upon the payment of $200 and costs. It was claimed that Mrs. Lacinak's husband had been arrested for possessing liquor and that the liquor found in her possession had belonged to him.

Joe Murawski, larceny by bailee of an automobile, was sent to the Huntington Reformatory.

Matthew Mush, possessing liquor, fined $100 and costs and sentenced six months to the Allegheny county workhouse.

Earnest Fenniwick of Girard, O., driving an automobile while intoxicated, fined $200 and costs and sentenced to the county jail for 60 days, sentence to date from Dec. 13th, when he was placed in jail.

Earl Moon, larceny of an automobile, which was afterwards recovered, $100 fine and costs, and paroled for three years.

Three Children Burn To Death

Weirton Home Is Destroyed By Fire, Mother Fails To Save Youngsters.

LOW WATER SUPPLY HANDICAP FIREMEN

(International News Service)
WEIRTON, W. Va., Jan. 24.—Three children were burned to death here today when the home of Joseph Cross was destroyed by fire caused by an overheated stove.

The dead: Joseph, 2; Hazel, 6, and Marie, 9. Mrs. Cross was seriously burned about the body when she attempted to save her children. The father was away at work when flames took the lives of his three children.

Mrs. Cross, who was awakened by smoke, made a desperate attempt to reach her children in an adjoining room, it was learned, but she was forced from the house after suffering severe burns.

The bodies of the children were removed from the ruins of the Cross home after firemen battled the fire for an hour.

Diminished water supply handicapped the firemen, they said.

Dr. Wallace Says About $110,000 Insurance Carried

At the meeting of the Rotary club of New Castle today President Wallace of Westminster college said that "Old Main", the principal building of the college, was a total loss by the fire this morning. Insurance on the building and contents was held to the amount of about $110,000 but it will take about twice the amount to replace the loss, he said.

Doctor Wallace said that it being an old type of building the amount of insurance was all that could be expected and the insurance company had already assured them that they would receive every cent of the protection in a very short time.

A motion was taken by the Rotary club, of which Doctor Wallace is a former member, and the Rotarians expressed their deep sympathy at this great loss and hoped that from the ashes would rise a larger and better building that would be a credit to the greatness to which the college had attained.

Annual Memorial For City Firemen At Trinity Church

Members Of Departments Attend Services In Body Sunday Night.

EXCELLENT ADDRESS BY REV. PEARSON

Eight Members On Memorial Roll During Year Just Passed.

Annual memorial services held Sunday night at Trinity Episcopal church in memory of the deceased members of the New Castle Fire department, were largely attended by both members of the department and residents of the city and proved interesting to all those so fortunate as to be present.

The service was featured by the interesting and timely address of the rector of the church, Rev. Philip C. Pearson, the special music by the choir and Paul Browne Patterson, the choir director and organist and the general service in accordance with the rites of the Episcopal church.

Firemen Attend In Body

Members of the fire department as guests of Trinity Parish were seated in the front of the church, which had been reserved for them.

Rev. Pearson inaugurated his address with a sincere welcome on the part of Trinity Parish to the firemen of the city and expressed the appreciation of the parish and himself in being honored with the presence of the members of the fire fighting forces of the city.

He then brought forth the question of whether the community as a whole was supporting as it should the Firemen's Benefit Association, which protects the interests of the widows and orphans of the men, who risk their lives in the protection of the lives and property of the people of the city from the menace of fire and also the interests of the firemen, when injured in the performance of their duty.

Plea For Sincerity

In conclusion, Rev. Pearson made a plea for genuiness, sincerity, and manliness in life here on earth, calling attention to the fact that Christ while on earth, was

ONLY CHARRED WALLS REMAIN OF HISTORIC OLD COLLEGE BUILDING AT NEW WILMINGTON

Library, Chapel, Classrooms And Offices In Building That Is Prey To Fire —College Will Not Be Suspended, Says President Wallace—New Castle And Sharon Send Fire Departments To Village To Aid In Battle Against Blaze—Cause Of Fire Unknown

"Old Main," administrative building of Westminster College, at New Wilmington, and the shrine of every Westminsterite, was totally destroyed this morning by fire.

The cause is unknown, but is thought to have been defective wiring. The loss has been placed at $250,000 with part of the loss covered by insurance. The blaze was discovered at 5:20 by Thomas Wherry, night watchman, and he immediately gave the alarm.

In spite of the combined efforts of the New Wilmington, New Castle and Sharon fire departments, the building burned rapidly, and everything of inflammable nature was destroyed.

No more severe blow has been struck Westminster College than the fire of this morning. "Old Main" was more than just a building, it was an ideal, an institution, the physical representation of the spirit of the college. Since 1861 it has stood, receiving young men and women bent on an education, and its loss this morning will mean a personal loss for thousands who claim Westminster College as their Alma Mater.

College To Go On

Handicapped by the loss of the main building, the college classes will go on, according to Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president, this morning. As soon as it became apparent that the building was lost, the trustees of the United Presbyterian Church offered their edifice for classes, the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches followed, and the New Wilmington Club did likewise. In addition, the Conservatory of Music will be used for class work.

By a coincidence, today was the day upon which the first semester examinations were to start. All of the examination papers were in Old Main, stored in the basement. While this will delay the examinations a little, they will go on just the same, and Dr. Wallace said that he expected the opening of the second semester to be delayed not more than a week.

Library is Gone.

The chief physical loss in Old Main was the library, containing 15,000 of valuable research and scientific books. Another loss was the book store owned by two students, Thomas Patterson and Browne Bricker. They had just received their stock of books for sale for the second semester, the total value of which was $3,000. This is only partly covered by insurance and the loss will be borne by the two young men.

In the office of the building, the records of students, both past and present are thought to be safe in the safe. The personal records of Dr. Wallace, his records of Rotary, of which he was district president, and various other records and accounts were destroyed.

Old Wesminster Spirit Manifest.

At 9 o'clock this morning in the United Presbyterian church the old Westminster spirit manifest itself in a way more convincing, more impressive than any other demonstration of like kind in years.

Five hundred students gathered together in the auditorium of the church to discuss what was to be done. It was not an enthusiastic gathering, not a demonstrative gathering, it was more than that, for the impressive silence that marked the meeting testified to the genuine sorrow of the men and women present, more, it augured well for the work of rebuilding Old Main.

There was little speaking, hearts were too full for any utterance. But the way they sang the Westminster hymn, the way they joined in a resolution pledging themselves to cooperation with the faculty, board and alumni spoke volumes. The meeting was presided over by Walter Wilkison, president of the student council.

At the same time a faculty meeting was held with Dr. Wallace in charge. It was decided to hold classes in the Conservatory of Mu-

TWO ELECTION OFFICERS ARE GIVEN FINES

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 24.—James A. Battle, judge of elections, and Bess Camby, inspector of an election ward here, were today ordered to pay fines of $100 and costs each by Visiting Judge Miles I. Potter in criminal court on charges of negligence in making a false count in returns in the contest of James Zak and Daniel Malie for nomination to candidacy for the state legislature here in May, 1926.

Battle and Miss Camby were convicted Friday. The defendants, with Violette Lomady and Margaret E. Connor, also members of the election board, were acquitted of a charge of conspiracy in the election.

Judge Potter bitterly scored the defendants, saying that in his opinion all four should have been convicted. He cited the case as a warning to all election boards.

Says Smith And Vare Permanently Barred By Senate

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—A permanent barrier, which will block Col. Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, and William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, from ever entering the U. S. Senate, was erected by the vote denying Smith his oath, it was predicted today by Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska, leader of the insurgent bloc.

Even as attorneys for Smith began drafting an appeal to the senate elections committee to recommend the admission of Smith on his credentials as the appointee of Governor Len Small, the insurgent leader declared the effort was doomed to failure and that both Smith and Vare would be barred from the Seventieth Congress without being permitted to take their oaths.

"Without any question," said Norris, "the 48 to 33 vote denying Smith the right to his oath means that he and Vare cannot enter the next senate. The fight to keep Smith out as the appointee of Governor Small was the weakest case. There can be no question about the result when Smith and Vare come here with the credentials of their election last November."

Rotarians Hear Of People And Work In Siam

The regular weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club was held Monday at the Fountain Inn at which addresses were made by Ralph I. McConnell and Dr. Chas. H. Crooks, missionaries from Siam. Doctor W. C. Wallace, president of Westminster College also spoke of the loss to the college in the burning of Old Main and spoke in a sad but hopeful tone about the replacing of the building.

Mr. McConnell spoke about the habits and customs of the people of Siam while Doctor Crooks told of some of the industries that American and European men are engaged in, in this Asiatic country.

City Hall May Be Remodelled

One Plan Would Result In City Deriving Revenue.

PIECEMEAL SYSTEM IS NOT FAVORED

Although council has not yet requested architects to submit plans and specifications for remodelling of the city building, it is said that architects are ready to "hue to the task."

For year there have been pleas made by councilmen and citizens that the municipal building should be sold and a new structure built.

They made the plea after considering that every month or more money is spent for remodelling certain parts of the building.

If the appropriations for changes in the building are continued it will not be long, it is said, until vast sums have been spent.

According to a plan once put forward by E. S. Stevenson, plumbing inspection, the building could be remodelled in an uptodate manner and by rental of offices, the city would pay for the money spent and derive a revenue within a few years.

At the present time council has indicated that the city building will be remodelled. They believe that it would be difficult to sell the building at a price council says the building should bring.

City May Move Police Station

Tyler Would Have East Street Department Building Remodelled

Councilman Walter V. Tyler today stated that he believes the city should not only move the treasurer's office but should also move the quarters of the police station and rent that room, also.

Tyler says that the police station could be moved to the East Street fire department. He says the building could also be used for other purposes, as he believes it too large a building to be entirely converted to the administration of police affairs.

Architects are now preparing plans for the construction of a new fire department building on South Jefferson street. When the building is constructed at a cost of $35,000, the Central department will be housed in the new quarters.

VIEWERS APPOINTED FOR PROPOSED STREET

Petition for viewers to assess the damages for the taking of properties of Lee R. Gordon, George L. Patterson and Andrew Dietterle, in the first ward, for the opening of a street from Jefferson street to the Southern end of Mercer, was presented in court today. The petition which is by the city of New Castle, states that agreements have been reached with Gordon and Patterson, whereby their properities are purchased for $17,000. Clarence Patterson, Thomas A. Gilkey and Clyde Shoaff, were named as viewers.

Guard Against Pneumonia

The commissioner of health of a large city just reported as follows:

"There has been a slight increase in influenza over the record for last week, but it still is one case below the reported cases for the corresponding week of last year.

"I emphasize the reported cases because, as is usual, a very large number of mild cases of influenza are not reported, because physicians are not called in. These cases frequently result in pneumonia."

Pneumonia frequently develops quickly from supposed minor ills.

Guard against it by putting all ills up to your physician promptly.

Town Talk

Where in the city of New Castle is Veach's Hill?

How many old timers could tell a stranger, where to look for such a place?

Mike Keith of the South Side brought the question up a few nights ago and of all the people in the crowd at the time, not one could answer.

Mr. Keith enlightened them by saying that Veach's Hill is the hill on South Mill street between Phillips and Reynolds street. Many years ago it was even higher than it is now, and was known to the residents of this city as Veach's Hill, probably named for some old timer by the name of Veach.

of ruins and the New Castle firemen returned to service in this city.

An additional line of 600 feet was laid to the scene from the engine by the New Wilmington firemen after some little delay on account of different connections and this was also played on the flames.

The firemen making this record trip were Zeitler, Thomas, McCleary and McDaniels. Frank Robinson made the trip in his own machine and also assisted.

According to Chief Lynn when still a mile or more distant from New Wilmington the blaze was seen and indicated the vast proportions of the same.

Thinks Furnace Cause.

In the opinion of Chief Lynn the fire must have started from the heating plant.

When the local line was ready for action the firemen were about to enter the front door to fight the flames, but Chief Lynn stopped them and had them fight it from the outside sensing the dangerous condition of the floor.

A few mintes later he entered a rear door of the building and as he did so the floor began to give way. In 10 minutes the entire first floor had dropped into the cellar.

Chief Vanderholt and a fire engine arrived on the scene from Sharon about 8:30 o'clock but their services were not required as the local forces with the assistance of the New Castle firemen were doing all that was possible.

Records of the college in a fire proof safe which dropped into the basement are believed to be intact as the Wilmington firemen poured water in on it for a considerable length of time.

Jacksonville Agreement Principal Consideration Before Miners Delegates

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—John L. Lewis, newly re-elected president of the United Mine Workers of America, enroute to Indianapolis to attend the thirtieth convention of mine workers, opening there tomorrow declared today the Jacksonville agreement will be one of the principal considerations of the gathering.

While Lewis refused to commit himself on the probable action of the convention, he hinted the workers will ask a renewal of the Jacksonville agreement.

This agreement, negotiated three years ago, covers the wages and working conditions of union miners in the bituminous fields of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. It expires April 1, of this year.

"While there will be speculation and guesses as to the result of the wage scale deliberations," said Mr. Lewis, "No one will know what the scale demands will be. The scale committee will consider the suggestions of the various delegates and the concensus of these opinions will be presented to the convention for approval.

"Later these demands will be presented to the operators in a joint session scheduled for Miami, Fla., on Feb. 14."

Legislature To Reconvene For Session Tonight

Await Budget Report From Governor Fisher—Patronage List Ready

BY G. ROSS DOWNING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 24.—With nearly 200 bills introduced in both houses, few of which have been referred to committees, the names of legislature employes to be announced, and Gov. John S. Fisher's budget message earnestly awaited, the solons gathered here today for the opening of the fourth week of the 1927 session of the Pennsylvania general assembly.

One of the first things expected to be taken up by both houses when they reconvene at 9 o'clock tonight will be the announcement of the employes lists as mapped out by the slate committee of each branch.

More bills will be thrown into the hopper and it is slightly possible that a few of the 200 bills will be reported out of committees for their first readings. Only the senate, where bills have been referred to committees, will be able to do any reporting out. Speaker Thomas Bluett, of the house, failed to place any of the 130 odd house bills in committees before adjournment last Tuesday.

In view of the fact that much legislation will hinge around Gov. Fisher's budget, it is expected that the solons will hold a brief session this week, possibly adjourning Tuesday until January 31. It is understood that the budget and the governor's message will be ready for the legislature January 31 or February 1. The budget will cover expenditures of the state government for two years beginning June 1.

With the Fisher budget before them, the lawmakers will get down to real work next week. Neither house will have a calendar tonight, but should any bills be reported out of committees tonight, a calendar will make its appearance tomorrow.

This week, no doubt, will be turned over mostly to introduction of more bills and committee meetings and next week heavy calendars will be drawn up.

Adjournment in the house tonight probably will be out of respect for the late Edward L. Allum, representative from Mercer county, who died here last Thursday. He was to be buried in Sharon this afternoon with a house committee appointed by Speaker Bluett to attend the funeral.

Martin Meets Death By Discharge Of Gun At His Home Sunday

Circumstances Surrounding Case Lead Friends To Believe It Accidental

Henry Norman Martin, aged 22 years, of New Wilmington, is dead as the result of what is believed to have been the accidental discharge of a shotgun in the bath room of his home at New Wilmington Sunday afternoon. Martin was alone in the room at the time, so that the exact manner in which it happened, is not known, further than the circumstances surrounding the case.

According to the story as related to Coroner J. P. Caldwell, Martin, had worked Saturday in New Castle and returned to the home of his mother, Mrs. Norman Martin, late Saturday night. Sunday afternoon he was about the house and in the best of spirits. When he returned Saturday night he had brought a steak home with him which his mother was preparing to cook for dinner.

Martin said that while she was preparing the steak he would shave. He is said to have been humming a song as he went into the bath room. Soon after Mrs. Martin heard an explosion. She thought at first that it was a lump of coal exploding in the fire. She called to her son and receiving no response, opened the bath room door found him lying across the bath tub with a ragged hole in front of his head. A shot gun was lying on the floor.

The shotgun had been kept in the kitchen until recently. It is said that Mrs. Martin had asked her son to keep it in the bath room, but that he had objected on account of the steam. However, Mrs. Martin had placed the gun in a corner of the bath room. She did not know that it was loaded. Martin was a great lover of a gun and frequently handled it. Mrs. Martin believes that after going into the bath room he had reached for the gun, possibly to see if the steam was affecting it. The stock of the gun was down among some pipes, and Mrs. Martin believes that in pulling the gun toward him from the pipes the stock struck one of them and the weapon was discharged. Mrs. Martin, who was almost prostrated by the shock, summoned neighbors and a physician, but the doctor found that death had been instantaneous.

Until recently Martin had been employed in the Shenango tin mill in this city, but of late had been in the meat business. He was born in Mercer county, January 27, 1905, being a son of Norman and Sara Garrett Martin. He was a member of the New Wilmington United Presbyterian church, and was a young man who stood high in the estimation of his friends.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Norman Martin, one brother, G. C. Martin of New Wilmington and three sisters; Mrs. C. A. Aiken, Lutton street, New Castle; Mrs. Harry S. Shaffer, New Wilmington and Mrs. Charles Miller of New Wilmington.

Funeral will be private, from his late home Tuesday at 2 p. m. Services in charge of Rev. J. R. Neale. Interment at Fair Oaks cemetery.

ONLY CHARRED WALLS REMAIN OF HISTORIC OLD COLLEGE BUILDING

Fire Discovered.

The fire was discovered at 5:20 by Thomas Wherry, night watchman. He immediately called Andrew A. McDonald, faculty manager of athletics, and he called Dr. Wallace. The bell in Old Main was rung, and in a few moments townspeople and students were on the campus, helping to fight the fire.

The fire when first noticed was in the section of the building which is near the heating plant in the basement, and it also is possible that the fire may have started from the heating department.

A call was sent in to New Castle and Sharon fire departments and they made remarkable time in answering the call. New Castle received the call at six minutes to six and at 6:15 the equipment was swinging into action at the fire. Speaking of this angle, Dr. Wallace said: "Westminster college will always be grateful to the New Castle fire department for their promptness and their wonderful work in fighting the fire. They could not save the building of course, but this was beyond human endeavor."

Due to the age of the building and the fact that the interior was wood, there was little that could be done to check the progress of the blaze, despite the willingness of the volunteers and the firemen who assembled. The other college buildings and homes in the vicinity of "Old Main" were far enough away that they were not seriously endangered, except the Science hall, located on the southeastern corner of the college campus. This was prevented from being damaged by the work of the firemen.

The walls which were still standing as the fire was raging this morning, may have to be razed at once, due to danger of falling.

As the fire developed early this morning, there was no one in the building, except the watchman, and so far as reported no one was injured during the course of the fire.

Awesome Spectacle.

Going into New Wilmington this morning, from the top of Furnace hill, the fire presented an awesome spectacle. Flames rising 40 feet in the air bore mute testimony to the destruction of an institution that means more to people of this vicinity than the actual physical value of the brick and stone contained in the structure. It was as though some ruthless hand were tearing out one's very heart strings.

In addition to the loss sustained by the school, several of the members of the Westminster college faculty also sustained heavy individual losses in the destruction of their books and papers. While a few things were saved from the building, they were not of great moment, and practically everything that was in the class rooms the possession of the instructors was also lost.

"Old Main" was a three-story brick building, containing some 15 class rooms, a chapel, a library, a boook store, offices and reception rooms. It was originally built in 1854, but fire destroyed it in 1861 and the present building was rebuilt in that year. Since that time thousands of men and women have left its ivy class halls to take their places in the world, richer for having been associated with the historic old building.

Plans will go forward immediately for the rebuilding of Old Main. It will mean giving on the part of Westminster alumni. It will mean sacrifice and work, but every true son and daughter of old Westminster will undoubtedly respond to the call.

The sentimental value of Old Main can never be replaced. The physical value can, and out of the fire, Phoenixlike, Old Main will rise, more glorious in its reincarnation, better fitted to handle the student body, a testimonial to the undying love and affection for the institution which has meant so much to its alumni.

DESPAIR AT 45—SUCCESS AT 50!

Arthur T. Collins was a failure at 45. He was always tired—always worn. He did not know what ambition was. He was cranky and grouchy. One day someone told him to try Partola to tone his system, to get renewed energy. Mr. Collins tried it. He writes that within one month he felt a remarkable improvement. Ambition grabbed him. He started to think faster. He felt anxious to work. And today, he is the head of a large store in his city, making money for himself and his family.

The only trouble with Mr. Collins was that poisons in his system were dulling his mind—he had what is professionally known as Toxaemia! There are many men who are making no headway because they are not physically fit, yet never suspect that Toxaemia (system poisoning) is the real reason. The warning is ofttimes a lazy, laggard feeling—a weary, worn-out condition. Unless the intestinal tract is kept clear of these gas-forming poisons there are certain to be serious reactions—but daily bowel action is no proof that the intestinal tract is clear!

Partola cleanses the system quickly and safely—and rids it of the life-destroying poisons that cause Toxaemia! Leaves you conscious of a fresh, vibrant feeling of complete internal cleanliness!

There is success ahead for every man. It is only a question of ambition, and ambition is a question of a healthy body—a clear mind! Get the Partola habit. It is convenient to take—in peppermint form. Convenient to buy—at your druggist. Regular box, 30c—double size, 60c. Start now!

"THE SHOCK"
AT THE REGENT
Today, Tomorrow and Wednesday

The Regent theater is presenting the first half of this week the latest of the many great pictures in which Lon Chaney is the star. With Virginia Valli, he is to be seen in "The Shock", a story of San Francisco in the days just before the earthquake. "The Shock" is a great romance and is thrilling to the highest degree. Pictured in all its thrills and reality is the destruction of an entire city by an earthquake, this scene being one of the most stupendous ever attempted by any picture producer. You will like "The Shock" as you have liked other Chaney productions. Today, tomorrow and Wednesday only, at the Regent.
Mabel Normand is to be seen in a good comedy and there will be other special features, also.

WESTMINSTER'S LOSS

NEWS that reached this city early this morning of the total loss of the administration building or "Old Main" at Westminster College, as a result of the fire, was one that was a source of widespread regret both on the part of the loyal adherents of Westminster and on the part of the citizenry as a whole.

Westminster is a most important part of the educational plan of Lawrence county, and this entire district. The loss sustained by the college in the fire is one that is severe, it can hardly be estimated at the present time.

There is no question however, as to "carrying on" by the college. Spirit of the students and those in charge of the affairs of the school has already been clearly indicated, and the same response will come from the alumni and adherents of the college everywhere.

For while "Old Main" is gone, a new "main" will rise to replace the historic building. Supporters of Westminster College will rally to the cause of the college in this emergency as never before.

Westminster will carry on!

LIFE INSURANCE GROWTH

ALL life insurance records were broken last year, and there is now $80,000,000,000 in force, according to a recent report of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents; but the association doesn't say what factor or factors have contributed to this tremendous growth.

Apparently, there are three: The value of life insurance itself, the fact that the public is educated to its value and the fact that life insurance is being sold nowadays by a higher type of salesman.

Twenty years ago young men and old men sought the life insurance field as a sort of haven of refuge.

Such men are unwelcome now. Insurance companies today employ salesmen who have made a success in other fields or who are capable of doing so.

The selling of life insurance has been lifted to the plane of what amounts to a profession, and the results speak for themselves.

Health is wealth, but hard to cash.

Wait until some cartoonist draws a picture of some woman in politics as the beef trust.

Eleven months of the year still remain, and already a lot of second-hand good intentions are available for paving purposes.

It is estimated that fifty per cent of church members contribute nothing to its support. It is also estimated that they get out of the church just about what they put ino it.

But how in the world does a shoestring know you are trying to catch a train?

Of all glad words that signs can say, the gladdest are these three: "Park all day."

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS

Now a New Year's resolution is an easy thing to make,
And I think none will dispute me, it's an easy thing to break.
In one minute it is fashioned, just as perfect as can be,
But to find its actual value takes a year or two or three.
It's a fact beyond denial
It takes weeks and months for trial
To discover if it's really holding up the way it should—
It looks splendid when you make it,
But the slightest strain may break it,
Though it's new, it doesn't follow that it's really any good.

I've made New Year's resolutions in the twinkling of an eye
That will pass a close inspection by the critics standing by.
I can make them by the dozen and the minute they are made
They will look as though I'd built them for the most exclusive trade
I can polish them and shine them and in every way refine them,
I can letter them on parchment and can hang them on the wall,
But the sad and solemn fact is I must put them into practice.
I must work them to discover if they're any good at all.

For a New Year's resolution has to stand a lot of wear,
And you have to watch it closely just to keep it in repair.
When it's fresh and bright and shiny it's a lovely thing to see,
But the maker cannot furnish any written guarantee,
For whatever be his station
If it can withstand temptation,
If it buckles up in service and goes jolting to a fall,
If the maker of it's yellow
And he stays the same weak fellow,
Then his New Year's resolution isn't any good at all.

NO MAN MAKES—

A success of life by knocking other men's success.
Friends by imposing on them.
Contentment out of money alone.
A good father who has forgotten his own boyhood.
A mistake in accepting the advice of his conscience.
A good husband who thinks exclusively of his rights.
Real progress just because he is making money.

Hints and Dints

When enough northeners migrate to Florida they will put some pep into the state. Right now the only thing down there that will fight back is the grape fruit.

What a tragedy the life of that Akron, Ohio, man must have been when he lived to be 101 years old and then took the rope route out. A man can live long enough to be a curiosity if nothing else.

Breakfast is being served at 11:30 a. m. to those who rusticate at Palm Beach and it is called "Brunch," because it is both breakfast and lunch. We are surprised, after seeing the carryings on at that place at night, that any are able to take nourishment that early in the day.

The mayor of an Indiana city declares the wearing of the flapping goloshes is a menace to safety and has ordered those who appear on the streets in goloshes to have them closed up or whatever it is that has to be done to them to keep 'em from flapping. In our opinion there isn't anything more unlovely than the way the female and also male flappers wear the golosh.

So much matrimony is just experimentation with benefit of clergy.

Gov. Fisher is to address the Pennsylvania Society in Washington, D. C. The governor is a Pennsylvanian and is the proper person to make such an address and those who hear it will hear him speak well of his own state. He will not be heard shouting what a lot of crooks we are here.

Getting elected to the United States senate isn't so much of a job as getting a designated place in the senate in which to hang the hat and place the overshoes. It seems to us it would be an awful blow to be kept out of the senate by some of the high jackers who are already in.

A man's past misdeeds often hang him later on when he spired to public favor. It behooves men and women also to live their lives so they can get their names in the newspapers without causing a scandal. Even when a Texas preacher killed a man in Texas they have gone back and told of him burning a church to get the insurance and also picking pockets and other things. Such awful persons who do anything in court to gain their own ends.

The prohibition director in Philadelphia is quitting his job to go into the chicken business. A man who can leave the booze hunting business and go into the chicken raising business is nothing but an optimist, but he may get more discouraged in raising chickens than hunting bootleggers.

There is much talk about a new house in Harrisburg for the governor to live in. This is not because that men cannot be elected governor because a new house is needed. Lots of men would just dearly love to live in the present governor's mansion.

We notice in newspapers where grand juries are investigating county poor houses and when they do they always get a real good meal while doing the inspecting. No doubt the grand juries in Lawrence county will also have this pleasure in the future.

Now there's a man who says he can extinguish a candle by drawing a bow over a violin. Yeh, and there are violinists who can drive whole families out of the house that way.

Judging from the way ballot boxes are being treated in this state and also in other states just now, in the future it may be years before it is finally decided who won at an election.

Judging from the frequency with which the word "all eged" appears in the papers, thre are a lot of people unfamiliar with the libel law, who hang their hopes upon it.

There have been men and there are men now and there will be men in the future, who work out their lives at hard work trying to make money and when these chaps die almost invariably the bums who get their money have more fun on it than the one who saved it ever imagined there was in the world. Have some fun on the money you earn, because you will get a laugh later on from some yap who gets it.

We hear some talk of another judge for Lawrence county. No doubt if another one is provided there are those who will insist on his being a "wet" one.

On February 10th a great event is to take place in New Castle. The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra is to give a concert in the Scottish Rite Cathedral on that evening. It will be a great event. Some days before the Community Dinner we told you to get your tickets early for that well known success. We are telling you now to get your paste boards soon as possible for the 10th of February.

Pay Money Or Lessen Accidents.

Legislators in many states are urging compulsory liability insurance as a panacea for those injured in automobile accidents, but shy violently against a strict driver's license law, which would do more to lessen accidents than any single legislative act. Their reasoning would seem to be, "millions for the injured but nothing for safety." We know that over 20,000,000 people in this country wish to drive cars. To deprive any of them of that right would cause them individual suffering and inconvenience.

The denial of the use of a car for infractions has a wholesome effect. That in itself is a punishment not to be lightly regarded. If a man refuses to carry insurance, in addition to other penalties, he might be deprived of the use of his car until assessed damages are liquidated. The person who can't drive with safety to himself and others should be eliminated by a strict driving test. The person who won't drive without indulging in recklessness should be deprived of the use of a car temporarily or permanently.—American Motorist.

The newspapers sell papers at a loss, advertising space at a profit and give publicity free. It takes some executive capacity to operate a newspaper.

We wonder if heaven will have any drives for funds and if so will there be any there of the kind who on earth contributes to the funds and never make a payment. There isn't much heaven for those who are entrusted with the responsibility of collecting from such birds.

Another objection to war is that it seldom kills off the right people.

If the weather bureau has anything worse up its sleeve than the kind it has handed out the past week we hope it will keep it there. Rain the entire week and no ball games either.

This is More Than Scandalous!

Some days ago we said in this column that most cities had official colors and we innocently asked some information on the subject. A day or so afterwards we received a dirty anonymous letter from a bird who says he comes here frequently as a traveling man. If he were known he would be made to travel some. It is about the worst we have ever received along public lines. In order to show what kind of bozos visit our fair city we are publishing the letter just as we received it in The News office. It follows:

New Castle, Pa.,
Jan. 19, 1927.

Dear Hints and Dints:

Here I am ready to suggest some colors for the city of New Castle. Small cities such as New York, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, etc., as a rule have two colors but for New Castle, the greatest city in the world, there ought to be at least three colors. Here they are: Black yellow and green. Black is to signify the dirt of the town. Wherever you walk or look there is an abundance of it. Yellow signifies the yellow streak of the town's people. There are no exceptions. Each and every one is infected with it. Green denotes the outrages ignorance which exists among the inhabitants of the town. Now, Hints and Dints, how do you like my suggestion? I doubt if you can improve on them and be sincere at the same time. I am a traveling salesman and am obliged to stop off in this hick town frequently. Therefore I feel that I am competent to give you some idea on what the colors of that city where the train backs in ought to be.

Very sincerely.
A TRAVELER.

Apparently there is no danger of the assembly at Harrisburg falling down on its job in the matter of new bills, hundreds of which have already been introduced. And as usual there are some members who puf in measures calling for new taxes.

While there might be some little differences over money matters the radio and the telephones demonstrate that we are on speaking terms with Europe.

Elephant and the U. S. Chaplin May Leave Us. Gov. Smith, Mr. McAdoo. Warning from Mr. Mellon.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1927, By N. Y. American, Inc.

S. W. Straus warns that building of apartment hotels and office buildings has been overdone. Mr. Stabler of the Metropolitan Life said the same a year earlier. Such warnings are necessary to restrain enthusiastic exuberance. But there is no reason for throwing over stocks of corporations dealing in building material, no need for builders to worry.

If you saw a keeper give his elephant enough hay for one meal you would say, "That elephant won't need any more hay for a week." Come back in an hour, and you'll find the elephant ready for more.

Like the elephant, this country has a gigantic capacity to absorb.

Suppose New York city, for instance, has built 20,000 living apartments in the last year? One year hence there will be 20,000 new "rich people" to fill them all. It is something like the talk about "the saturation" in the automobile business.

One old car is junked, two new cars are built and bought. The danger is not so much with the builder of a new apartment house or office building as with the owner of one out of date. It may have to come down.

Britain moans because it can't compete with American moving pictures. Charlie Chaplin may comfort his native land by going back there to make pictures when his troubles end here. They make you pay income tax there, but they don't let your angry wife impound, tie up and remove from control all of your money. Chaplin would cheer the British by opening a studio somewhere on the southern coast of England where it is warm in winter, no prohibition, Paris and Monte Carlo near by.

Governor Ritchie of Maryland, himself widely discussed in connection with the Democratic presidential nomination, says Governor Smith of New York "is the outstanding Democrat in the United States."

On the other hand, Milton, editor of the Chattanooga News, says William G. McAdoo is the only man for Democrats to nominate. Milton says Governor Smith cannot be nominated because "the country is 70 per cent dry, and no wet can be elected to the presidency." Governor Smith's friends say "Wait and see."

Mellon is paying off the country's heavy war debt as part of the job he undertook when he became secretary of the treasury. He understands finance and under his management the billions of public debt melt away. If Mellon continues at the present rate, Uncle Sam won't owe a dollar twenty-five years hence.

* * *

Mellon tries also to protect the people in their earnings, widows, children and the old especially, but that is harder work. You cannot force people to be wise.

Treasury agents watch and prosecute sellers of fraudient securities. But in spite of all effort Mellon shows that five hundred millions a year are taken dishonestly from the public savings.

John D. Rockefeller still has the New York Stock Exchange seat that he bought in 1883, forty-four years ago. He never uses it; keeps it perhaps to remind him of old days when he was making money for himself before he began spending his millions in Rockefellers foundations, institutes, fighting disease—for other people.

That seat, which probably cost Rockefeller less than $50,000, he could sell now for $180,000. If he holds it a little longer, it will be worth $200,000.

The 1,100 seats of the 1,100 stock exchange members are worth more than $200,000,000 now, which would surprise gentlemen that started the exchange long ago. Then $200,000 was a fortune, and a million something to be talked of in whispers. Now we move up to the billion.

Brokers begin work at 10, stop at 3, and there never can be more than 1,100 of them. That is something for labor unions to aim at, including a $200,000 value for membership in the union.

It must be remembered, however, that while the broker works from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., he worries from 3 p. m. to 10 a. m. Don't envy him.

What is the wealth of the United States? There is no guessing. Life insurance alone amounts to eighty thousand millions of dollars. It was increased by more than sixteen billions in 1926. If the working lives of those able and sufficiently provident to insure themselves are worth eighty billions, what is the value of all the land, farms, mines, oil wells and other wealth?

The railroads of the United States will spend a billion dollars this year on additions to their trackage, etc., which means new wealth created.

In Day's News

Paul Doumer, who has been elected president of the French senate, has been a prominent figure in French politics for more than 30 years. It was in 1895 that he was called to his first cabinet post, that of minister of finance. Ten years later he became president of the chamber of deputies, and at that time was considered of premiership caliber, for President Loubet called him to form a new ministry, but he did not accept. The next year he made an unsuccessful campaign for election as president of the republic. A decade of semi-retirement followed, but during the war he emerged to become minister of state and member of the war council. Since 1921 he has held the portfolio of finance in several ministries. M. Doumer during the war made one of the greatest contributions to his country, three of his five sons being killed at the front.

JUST HIS JOB

Out in California I once talked with a man who made a living from the pleasant occupation of flying kites.

All he had to do was to wait for a bright sunny day when the breeze was sweeping in from the sea, and then go to some vacant lot near the edge of the town, and spend his afternoon in the sport of kite flying.

And he got paid handsomely because attached to his string of kites was an advertising banner which attracted attention for miles around.

Here was a man whose job was just fun, whose work was play. If anyone ever should have had enjoyment out of his work, he was the man.

But no. Flying kites was "just his job." He said he was responsible for keeping the kites up so long, that he had to watch them all the time, that he couldn't quit when he wanted to as can boys when they fly kites. He got so tired of doing nothing but send up kites that only the good pay kept him at it.

Spectators who watched Pete De Paolo, the famous racing automobilte pilot, drive to victory on the track, were kept tingling with excitement at the spectacular thrills he furnished.

Yet to a reporter who interviewed him he said he got no special thrill out of driving a race. It was "just his job," the day's work, how he made his living.

"For a real thrill," he said, "I turn to golf. I get more thrills out of a game of golf than I ever do out of driving 130 miles an hour on the banked oval of a racing track."

On the other hand, professional golf experts get less thrill from playing golf than from driving a fast car on the road. For them golf is "just their job."

Fun, it seems, when it becomes the source of livelihood, loses its thrill.

When you are earning your living you feel a sense of responsibility. When you are having fun you don't care. When you are playing you can quit when you get tired. When you are working you have to keep on. And it takes very little, having to keep on when you want to quit, to outweigh the fun that went before.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

NEEDED—ANOTHER JOHN MARSHALL.

The Congress of the United States has created many Commissions and Bureaus for prying into and regulating the affairs of American citizens. The evil effects of these Bureaus are already seen, but there seems to be no end to the number which Congress desires to create:

The men who framed the Constitution, designed and placed in working order a government that gave more protection and personal liberty and stronger safeguards to property than can be found in any other country. The bitter experiences of the American colonists had shown them that a man's liberty needed protection not only from the head of the government, but from the government itself. They, therefore, created three departments of the government,—the Legislative, the Executive, and the Judicial,—with the intention that no department should ever exercise the power of the other departments. To preserve the Constitution, to make it workable and to protect the rights of every citizen guaranteed him by the Constitution, the judicial department was created. The framers of the Constitution intended the judicial department to be our protection against the usurpation of power by the other departments to invade our rights and curtail our liberties.

The rapid growth of the country has brought increased complexity of business. To meet this have come Government Administrative Boards and Commissions. The Courts rarely revise the opinion of a Commission on fact and the facts are usually the only disputed points. Commissions are permitted to exercise both Legislative and Judicial Powers, which is fraught with much danger. When Commissions are upheld in the exercise of arbitrary power, our protection of liberty and property is swept away and our right to earn our living, to own property, to pursue happiness and to enjoy liberty is under real menace.

John Mashall,—one of the greatest Americans of all times,—is the least known. To him more than to any other man we owe our right to the liberty and the opportunity for happiness granted by the Constitution. A pioneer and the son of pioneers, Marshall was born and raised in the wild frontiers of Virginia. Throughout his life, Marshall was a man of many friends. He was popular in the Revolutionary Army. The soldiers nicknamed him "Silver Heels" from the white heels of his home-made socks he wore in winning his foot races. His promotions were won for his courage under fire. The war over, Marshall became one of Washington's most dependable friends in the long period of the country's drift toward anarchy. As Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Marshall made the Constitution a living thing. He fixed for all time the American principle that a written Constitution as the act of the people stands above legislative acts.

He established the right of the Supreme Court to pass on the Constitutionality of laws enacted by Congress and to determine whether such laws were in conflict with the Constitution as enacted by the people. He secured the Supreme Court as the Interpreter of the Constitution. He confirmed the principle that the States have no power to override Constitutional Laws enacted by the Federal Government.

The Nation needs another John Marshall to break down and wipe out this growing evil of Bureaucracy.

Major Roberts now lives in England, though he is a Canadian by birth and spent much of his youth in the United States. He is a cousin of Bliss Carman, and they rose to poetic fame at about the same time. His animal stories are deservedly popular; but his poetry seems to me, and always will, his truest method of expression. His work reveals passion, fire and feeling.

He, who but yesterday would roam
Careless as clouds and currents range,
In homeless wandering most at home,
Inhabiter of change;
Who wooed the West to win the East,
And named the stars of North and South,
And felt the zest of Freedom's feast
Familiar in his mouth:

Who found a faith in stranger speech,
And fellowship in foreign hands,
And had within his eager reach
The relish of all lands—

How circumscribed a plot of earth
Keeps now his restless footsteps still,
Whose wish was wide as ocean's girth,
Whose will the water's will

Reducing Class Term Is Closed

Summary Of Measurements Taken In Present Term Reducing Class

Last week closed the first term of the Y. W. C. A. reducing classes with some very good losses in measurements and in weight. Summary losses.

Average individual loss, 7 pounds.
Largest individual loss, 22 pounds.
Total loss in weight, 239 pounds.
Largest chest decrease. 5 1-2 inches.
Largest chest decrease 4 inches.
Largest hip decrease, 4 inches.
Largest calf decrease 3-4 inch.

The reducers had planned to terminate the semester last Wednesday with a dinner at Sunnycrest and hike back to town but the weather intervened. However they plan to take this litle jaunt next Wednesday January 26.

You say with raised hands, "walk that distance?" Yes indeed and you could too after taking a course at the Y. W. C. A. These ladies probably would not be in condition for the hike either had they not been physically benefited during the past 15 weeks.

The new term in morning reducing begins Wednesday February 2 and the new evening reducing term begins Thursday, February 3. Call the Y. W. 748 for information. We are glad to discuss this class or any other class with you.

Only a limited number can be accomodated so don't wait till too late to register as so many did in the fall term. Now is the time to get rid of that 5 or 50 extra pounds. Surplus weight is like a huge snowball; the larger it is the longer it takes to melt it. Call now and register.

Stitch-A-Bit Club

The Stitch-A-Bit Club had a housewarming for Mrs. Bertha McKissick in her home on Maryland avenue Saturday evening. Cards and singing were the diversions of the occasion. Later in the evening an oyster supper served by Susan Wallace, Nellie Zeigler and Mrs. McKissick was a feature. Mrs. McKissick was the recipient of a number of pretty and useful gifts. On February 7 the club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Reynold Suber of Huron avenue.

POLICE DOG STOLEN

Alleges Forgery Of His Name To Judgment Notes

Alleging that his name, as it appears on three notes, is a forgery, Alexander Beck presented a petition to court this morning to have judgments opened, in order that he may make a defense.

One case was by the Community Savings & Loan Association against Alexander Beck, Ellen Beck and Joseph Rodgers. Another was on a note given to James C. MacNab and assigned to the Personal Finance company, and a third was a note to the Community Savings & Loan Association. The note to MacNab purported to be signed by Ellen Beck and Alexander Beck, and the third note by Joseph Rodgers, Ellen Beck and Alexander Beck.

Alexander Beck claims that he did not sign any of the notes. Judge Hildebrand granted a rule, returnable the first Monday of February.

"Yes, I killed her," Coffey declared hysterically. "I struck her over the head with an indoor baseball bat and hurled her body over a high bridge in West Dubuque into the Mississippi."

Play Football In Barefeet

Knute Rockne Makes Trip To Hawaiian Islands See Strange Sights.

BOXERS HAVE HARD TIME

By THOMAS R. CURRAN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Barefooted football players were the most interesting sight Knute Rockne saw during a short visit to the Hawaiian Islands, the veteran Notre Dame coach confessed upon his return to the mainland.

"It seems incredible" Rockne declared, "but those barefoot boys over in Hawaii would punt fifty yards without effort and dropkick the ball 45 yards. Of course they have gone without shoes all their lives so their feet are toughened but just the same I think it was the outstanding novelty of my trip to the mid-Pacific islands. Grass skirts weren't in it."

Rockne doubts if football playing in bare feet will ever be popular in the United States.

"It might be done in California I suppose if the players trained themselves for it, but the rest of the country the athletes would freeze their feet off.'

In support of a theory that children at present entering school too late in life when they start in kindergarten classes at the ages of five and six a course for children between the ages of 2 and 4 will be opened next month at Mills college in Oakland.

Twenty-four young children have already been registered for the course.

An explanatory statement issued by the college declared that "children below the present school age are important human beings and what happens during those early years determines in a large part, their physical, mental and personality traits for the rest of their lives.

The school will be held three hours daily from 9 o'clock in the morning till noon. Mrs. Merydth Aushutz will be the director of the "pre-school" classes.

"It is a recognized problem for educators" Mrs. Aushutz confided "that children entering kindergarten at the age of 5 or 6 come to school fully equipped with a set of habits well established. These habits the teacher must undo. By starting the children in school at an earlier age we hope to mould the habit-forming process in the right direction."

Social workers in San Francisco have found that old men in need of charitable assistance are far less willing to discuss their past than women of advanced years in similar straits.

"Men are singularly reticent" an offical of the San Francisco Relief Home declared summing up his years of experience as a social worker "but the old women like nothing better than to tell us all about themselves and their adversities."

Most of the ills to which the human flesh is heir are caused by an over consumption of sugar according to Miss Hilda Faust specialist in agricultural extension at the University of California.

Among the evils which Miss Faust believes are caused by an aching "sweet tooth" are the following:

1. Overweight.
2. Gastric iritation.
3. Imperfect metabolism.
4. Diabetes.
5. Faulty assimilation.
6. Anemia.
7. Dental decay.

In addition Miss Faust declares that candy and other sweets tend to replace fresh fruit and vegetables and other mineral and vitamin-bearing foods in the diet.

Boxers ascend to heights of fame and fortune and reverse the process with as much facility as movie stars.

Eddie Roberts a ham-and-egger from the Pacific northwest got $400 for knocking out Joe Dundee the Baltimore welterweight sensation here several weeks ago. Then with Eddie and his manager and Roberts got $14,000 and more for fighting Dundee all over again in New York city.

Then on the other hand there's the case of Jack Silver who a few months ago was considered a foremost contender for the lightweight boxing title. Silver met Mushy Callahan now junior welterweight champion here last Fourth of July and walloped Mushy all over the place for an easy decision victory. Later Silver ran into a couple of caloused pugs. He is now tossing pineapple crates off steamships on the local waterfront hoping to condition himself for an eventual attempt at a "come-back."

Pygmy Islanders Mystify Touring Science Group

Picturesque Island In South Seas Habitation Of Interesting Dwarf Colony

The tale of Rip Van Wrinkle, made famous by Washington Irving, might well have been laid on the picturesque island of Bimbo in the South sea, instead of the North American Catskills, according to recent findings of a group of Americans who have been exploring that Pacific paradise.

Those who recollect the theme of Irvings masterpiece, will never forget those quaint dwarfs, who proved the undoing of Old Rip, by tempting him with an intoxicating liquor, sometimes called mountain dew. Visiting Americans report a colony of little grown ups, on Bimbo, who according to their report deport themselves in true Irving style.

When first discovered, they were busily engaged in various labors, in their village located in the crater of an extinct volcano, and to all outward appearances, the colony was composed entirely of bewhiskered, hunchbacked old men.

The surprised discoverers, not wishing to disrupt the colony, concealed themselves in an advantageous position, where they observed the colony till nightfall, after which they, under cover of darkness, crept to the very edge of the village, where they were much surprised that the appearance of the pygmies has undergone a miraculous change.

Gathered about a gigantic campfire, were a group of pretty "little" girls enacting one of the ritualistic dance scenes, to the tune of several guitar like instruments, in the hands of their musical sisters, while hanging from the beams of an open shed, appeareed the various parts of their daytime raiment.

Misses Jean Hattman, Mary Spence, Marie Haerring, Margaret Smith, Marie White, Jeane Bowser, Leona Weaver, Gertrude Lundy, Louise Davies, Hilda Mort and Isabelle Leslie, will visualize this quaint scene, to those who attend the presentation of "Bimbo", romantic musical comedy at the Cathedral on January 27 and 28

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
BY MRS. MARY MORTON

Afternoon tea is the favorite indoor sport for the winter months in many households. Menus should be simple and the tea freshly brewed. Some menus and recipes are below. They are from a woman who says she enjoys inviting a friend or two in for the afternoon, telling them to bring their sewing, and she does her own mending while enjoying a friendly chat.

NUMBER ONE
Graham Crackers Date Roll
Peppermint Wafers Tea
NUMBER TWO
Cheese Sandwiches
Minced Ham and Olive Sandwiches
Cocoa With Marshmallows
NUMBER THREE
Complexion Salad
Cheese Crackers
Tea or Coffee

TODAY'S RECIPES

Graham Cracker Recipe—Butter graham crackers. Place a teaspoon of brown sugar on top and brown in oven. These may be made in the morning when they are to be served in the afternoon.

Date Roll Recipe—Stone one pound of dates and put through meat grinder. Add one cup of chopped walnut meats and roll into bologna sausage shape. Before serving slice and dip in powdered sugar. Date roll may be made at any time, for if wrapped in wax paper and placed in an airtight container it will keep for weeks.

Peppermint Wafers—Boil three cups of sugar with one cup of water and cream of tartar the size of a pea to 236 or to the consistency of hard fudge when tried in cold water. Then place in double boiler and as soon as fondant melts drop by teaspoons on wax paper. Place in tin box and they will keep for some time.

Cheese Sandwiches—One cake of Philadelphia cream cheese, one white of egg. Beat whilte of egg and cream with the cheese. Spread on circles of bread cut with biscuit cutter. One layer of rye and one of white bread makes the sandwich attractive.

SUGGESTIONS

Tea Rolls

When baking bread, roll out good sized piece of dough about one-fourth of an inch thick. Cut in strips about one and one-half inches wide and about five inches in length. Sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon, currants (nuts of desider). Roll each strip, place together in pan, let rise and bake in moderate oven thirty-five to forty minutes. When cool frost with plain white icing.

Oven Holders

Hot dish holders are usually small and not practical for oven use. For this purpose cut ticking 12x30 inches. Double it lengthwise, thus giving you a six-inch strip. This will enable you to hold both sides of the pan. If you cut the ticking one yard long you can turn it up at each end to form pockets for slipping in the hand when handling pans. These cloths make good shower, bazaar or Christmas gifts, and can be beautified by stitching the folded length in a diamond pattern and either binding the edges in bright color or buttonhole stitching them.

Add Persley

A little chopped parsley added to the egg mixture before cooking will give a delicious flavor to the omelette.

Adds Life

The growing daughter's dresses may be lengthened by putting a band of contrasting material above the hem and one in the sleeve directly above the cuff. An otherwise good dress can be worn out by this method of lengthening.

Keep Lid On

Always simmer pot roasts, stews, etc., with the lid on, because the lid keeps in the steam. The action of the steam is almost as important as the hot liquid which cooks the meat.

BETTER YET!

He—I suppose you dance?
She—Oh, yes, I love to.
He—Great! That beats dancing any time.

NEW CASTLE'S FIRST CITY WIDE

PAY-UP WEEK

January 24th to January 31st

A Week Devoted to the Clearing-Up of All Old Out-Standing Bills

If you are one of the many thousand people of New Castle and vicinity who meet their obligations promptly, and as they have agreed, you naturally will have little interest in this campaign—on the other hand, if you have some old outstanding accounts with the merchants, business or professional men, you will be vitally interested in this effort for many reasons.

IMPORTANT FACTS

1st— There is now in New Castle an organization known as the New Castle Credit Exchange maintaining an office where the paying habits of practically every person in New Castle will be carefully recorded.

2nd— If you pay promptly or as agreed at the time of the purchase, you will be so rated. If you make promises and do not keep them, if you are slow and unreliable you will be rated accordingly.

3rd— The Credit Exchange it merely the clearing house showing in our files exactly how you meet your obligations as reported by our members.

4th— MEMBERSHIP—We already have a majority of the representative merchants, business and professional men as members of the Credit Exchange.

What Does This Mean to the Individual

1st— Every person in New Castle who has an outstanding account with someone, has the opportunity during PAY-UP-WEEK to go to his creditor and make definite arrangements for the payment of this old obligation.

2nd— By doing this and fulfilling your promises, you establish yourself as a person who lives up to his agreement. It is the First Step in establishing good credit.

3rd— Immediately after Pay-Up-Week, the merchants, business and professional men of this community will advise the Credit Exchange as to the condition of your account. If you have made arrangements for payment, and intend to keep your agreement, it will naturally be marked on your card.

4th— IT IS ENTIRELY UP TO YOU. You make your own credit rating. See that a good clear record is sent to the Exchange. GOOD CREDIT IS YOUR GREATEST ASSET. SEE THAT IT IS KEPT GOOD.

Flood Waters Recede In Pittsburgh Area

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa. Jan. 24. — Receding flood waters which reached their high water mark at the juncture of Allegheny river with the Monongahela river here at 29.7 feet, inundating low-lying city streets, damaging basement stocks and causing the temporary rerouting of one city street car route, today were slowly resuming their normal stage after a week end which for a while threatened considerable damage.

A sudden drop in temperature, together with cessation of rains which caused the two rivers to overflow their banks in many places, brought relief. Rains late last night over the watersheds of the two rivers will serve only to delay the drop to normalcy, weather observes said.

Damage to household goods, merchandise and telephone company property during the flood was expected to aggregate thousands of dollars.

Suicides To Find Out What Lies Beyond The Grave

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 24.—Leaving a note explaining he was going to find out what follows death, Cassels W. Noe, 20, a medical student at the University of Wisconsin, shot and killed himself here.

The youth's body was found in his bedroom by his parents when they returned from church. Beside him lay a note saying that he had shot himself to find out "how things are over there."

As soon as possible the note said he would communicate with a fraternity brother with whom he said he had arranged a pact. The suicide he said was conceived from a study of phychology.

Chinese Foreign Minister Assails English Policy

(International News Service)

PEKING, Jan. 24.—Assailing England as the "mother of imperialism" Eugene Chen, Nationalist foreign minister, today delivered to the American legation an impassioned statement which was regarded as practically a declaration of war against England by the Nationalist regime.

Chen declared that foreigners can no longer be protected by foreign bayonets in China since China can fight back with economic boycott.

He asserted the Nationalists now control all China south of the Yangtse river and that the people in North China would favor the southerners if a plebiscite were taken.

The Nationalist foreign minister offered full protection for foreigners if the foreign nations would negotiate equal treaties with the Nationalists and promised a government radically different from that of "Chang Tsung-Chang's" barbarism, Chang Tso-Lin's feudalism and the Madrinate of Peking."

Uncle Sam Advises Planting Of Walnuts

Large Returns Assured When Timber Is Available, Says Federal Bureau

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 24.—Farmers in the upland and hill sections of the South, the Ohio River basin, or the central Misisippi Valley regions will make a good investment by planting a bushel of black walnuts. That is the advice given by the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture.

There are about 1500 nuts in a bushel and they should be planted about two inches deep in waste stripe, idle corners, and along fence rows. The walnut is a tree that requires good soil and the nut should not be planted in shallow, dry or poor land. If hogs or squirels are running over the land the nuts should be buried in a soil pit or kept in a damp cellar until spring and then planted.

Walnut is one of the two finest cabinet woods known to the world, and it is widely known that logs or stumps have a market value of from $150 to $200 a thousand feet.

The growing of valuable trees as a means of farm improvement has been recognized by farmers throughout the country. The possibilities of the black walnut are unusual, as it will yield a good yearly income from the nuts until the tree is ready to harvest, and it will add materially to the value of the farm.

The crop of walnuts is large, according to the department, and farmers over a large area from Pennsylvania to Arkansas and Iowa have an unusual opportunity to make a good paying investment by planting many of the nuts on the farms.

Fat Is Not In Fashion

All styles call for slenderness, short skirts in particular. And most women, as you see, are meeting that requirement.

The easy, pleasant way is Marmola Prescription Tablets. They act by correcting the cause. No abnormal exercise or diet is required.

People have used them for 19 years. They have told and shown the results to others, and the use has grown. Now, in these days of slender figures, people are using Marmola in a very extensive way.

You see the results everywhere. Perhaps your own friends can tell them. If so, they will say that Marmola brought none but good effects.

Try this time-tested method, so widely employed today. Simply take four tablets daily and watch results. Stop when you reach proper weight. A method used by millions, and for 19 years, must be both right and effective. Learn, for your own sake, what so many know about it.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Wisconsin Fruit Farmers Raise New Raspberry

(International News Service)

BARABOO, Wis., Jan. 24—A red raspberry new to the world so far as it is known, has ben developed after nine years of experimenting by C. R. Tuttle of Baraboo.

Old time growers of berries who have inspected the berry admit that they never saw anything like it. The fruit has all the good qualities of other varities of the red raspberry. The quality however is not the great feature of this new berry. The greatest thing about it is that it seems to be impervious to the common diseases of the raspberry which has become a serious menace to the growers throughout the country For many years the fruit growers have struggled against the inroads made by disease but so far have failed.

Mr. Tuttle began nine years ago to develop this new berry and now has several thousand plants.

Another new feature of the new plant is that it is free from briers. Just how this happened Mr. Tutle says he does not know.

Gas Excitement In Armstrong County

Several Large Strikes Lead To Greater Intensity By Drillers Of Wells

KITTANNING, Pa., Jan. 24. — After a lull of several months, Armstrong county is in the grip of gas well excitement, following several large strikes in nearby fields.

D. E. Montgomery of Shelocta, and Dr. A. W. McClister, of this place are reported to have brought in one of the million foot class on the Craft farm, immediately adjacent to Elderton borough. The well is located about 800 feet north of the big Schall strike. The Craft well is being connected with the Philadelphia company mains.

Gas men are interested in the well just drilled in by Sheasley and Mergenthaler on the James Piper farm, Manor township, directly north of the Armstrong County Fair Association grounds. This, it is said, will be good for a million feet a day. The strike opens up a really new field, as there never has been any drilling closer than a mile to this location.

The Red Band corporation, of which J. A. Beam is president, has brought in two sixth-sand wells on the James Baynham farm, having a production of over four million cubic feet daily. The Pennsylvania Fuel Supply company is taking the product.

W. H. Houpt of Hawthorn, having the Brown farm nearby has one well near completion and the rig is being erected at another location.

The saddest thing about life is it takes 50 years for young people to learn what they should know.

Christian Church Goes Over Top In Building Fund

Gigantic Building Fund Campaign Ends Yesterday Over Quota

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Jan. 24.—In one of the most stupendous undertakings of a local church the members of the Christian church went triumphantly over the top of the building budget drive which started January 11 and closed on January 23. The quota was set at $70,000 and it was announced by Rev. G. C. Huffer yesterday at the Strand theater in a sermon built around the campaign that the toal amount was a little over $72,000.

This means in short that when the new Christian church on the corner of Wayne and Fourth streets now under construction is dedicated in the fall not one member will be solicited for a penny.

The drive was successful through the efforts of the Hancher organization of Chicago of which J. W. Hancher, brother of D. C. Hancher of this city is president. Mr. Hancher sent two of his workers to Ellwood City to go with the members of the building committee on their visits to the members of the congregation. Rev. G. C. Huffer pastor, comes in for a large share of the credit for the successful venture, for had it not been for his untiring efforts the campaign would not have gone through.

All members of the building committee worked hard and deserve commendation for the splendid results. The church building is being hurried as fast as possible the services being planed to be conducted in the basement as soon as it is completed. At present the members attend services in the Strand theater.

Members of the building committee comprise Rev. C. G. Huffer, W. F. Aiken, A. J. Howell, Frank Dibbel, H. C. Newron and M. E. Soloberg.

At this time the above committee wishes to thank the members of the congregation for responding so well to the call for funds in the recent successful drive.

The young medico coughed rather gravely.

"I am sorry to tell you," he said slowly, looking down at the very sick man in the bed, "that there is no doubt you are suffering from scarlet fever, and, as you know, it is extremely contagious."

The patient slowly turned his head upon the pillow and looked toward his wife.

"Dearie," he said in a faint but distinct voice, "if any of my creditors call, you can tell them at last I am in a position to give them something."

Dry Laws Will Not Be Changed

Little Change To State Prohibition Enforcement Laws Forecasted.

BY ROBERT F. GORMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 24.—Prohibition enforcement laws in Pennsylvania will undergo little change during the 1927 general assembly, according to the belief of various legislators gathering here today for the reconvening of the session tonight.

Gov. John S. Fisher's statement that "prohibition is a problem of enforcement rather than enactment" has made it clear that the present administration is satisfied with enactments already on the statute books and that Pennsylvania can be kept dry without further legislation. The governor's stand has tended to nip in the bud the hopes of solons who may have had prohibition bills up their sleeves.

Representative Charles F. Armstrong, of Armstrong county, chairman of the house law and order committee, has expressed the hope that the prohibition laws remain as they are at present. He declared that he has nothing in mind which would make the existing law more forceful. It is generally conceded that Pennsylvania's dry laws have a sufficient number of teeth in them to meet conditions.

Fear has been expressed in some quarters that any attempt to amend may result in the weakening of present acts and a careful watch will be kept to prevent any dropping of the bars.

While both Gov. Fisher's statement and the information given by Representative Armstrong would indicate that they do not want to see any prohibition law changes, it does not follow that meitorious legislation will be killed without consideration. Proposed amendments to the dry laws, even with the administration against them, will be presented without a doubt in both houses for careful consideration.

The prohibition problem, an important one in Pennsylvania, with its large cosmopolitan population, in so far as the state is concerned, during the Fisher administration will be handled solely by state agencies.

Gov. Fisher has made this fact clear. Funds for enforcement will come from legislative appropriation alone and not partially from outside sources during the past administration.

Gov. Fisher is of the opinion that the Eighteenth Amendment should be enforced; that the state laws relating to it should be enforced and that expenditures made necessary by such enforcement should come from the same sources which created the laws.

"Art" Magazine Sales Are Barred By Mayor Dunlap

Sale of magazines, designated as art magazines and containing nude pictures, which are considered detrimental to the public, particularly younger people, is banned in this city.

Acting under instructions of Mayor William H. Dunlap and Chief of Police Henry Dysart, the police are now engaged in notifying the various dealers in magazines to discontinue the sale of this type of publications.

No arrests are being made at this time and none will be made if the order of the mayor and chief are obeyed. If not followed, it is probable that there will be some arrests as it is proposed to put a stop to the sale of these magazines.

Burns Keeps In Touch With City

Although He Is In Southwest He Pens Suggestion Here.

Although Councilman William T. Burns is in the vicinity of Fort Worth, Texas, he is keeping familiar with legislation of New Castle.

Today his letter, written aboard a train and mailed from St. Louis, while Burns, accompanied by Mrs. Burns, who is ill, toward Texas, offered a suggestion to councilmanic colleagues.

Burns said that when council considered the new bond ordinance it should provide that should any balance be left from money paid for improvements, it could be used for other purposes.

Council considered his suggestion good but Solicitor White, while also agreeing with Mr. Burns' suggestion, said that the law provided for that.

Mr. Burns was cognizant of the fact that a bond ordinance was to be introduced and out of respect to Mr. Burns, colleagues will carefully consider all important legislation before passing it pending his return within the next few days.

Browning Trial Is Adjourned To Tuesday Morning

Two Witnesses Are Heard And Trial Is Then Postponed To Tuesday

By JAMES J. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

COURTHOUSE, CARMEL, N. Y., Jan. 24.—With a grand flourish, accompanied by loud handclapping, the celebrated separation suit of "Peaches" and "Daddy" Browning got under way here today in a little courtroom that was packed to the doors with an intensely interested audience.

A moment before court was called to order at 11 o'clock "Daddy" made a delayed entry into the courtroom. His entrance, like that of a leading man at play, was the signal for a wild outburst of handclapping from the women in the audience.

The trial was adjourned here today at 11:33 a. m. until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, when court will be held at White Plains, N. Y. Justice Arthur Seegar made this announcement after only two witnesses had testified today.

There was a possibility that the trial will come back to Carmel to hear rebuttal testimony for Edward W. Browning.

"Peache's" side will be presented at White Plains tomorrow morning.

Special Services Open Sunday In Third U. P. Church

Rev. John Simpson, pastor of the North United Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh, was greeted with a large audience that completely filled the auditorium and Sunday school room of the Third U. P. church at the opening meeting of a two weeks' evangelistic service on Sunday evening.

Rev. Simpson had for his subject, "The Way of the Human Soul", having for his text, "No Man Cares for My Soul". He said that this seemed to be a fact, as there were 27,000,000 people in America who were without any Sunday school or church affiliation. The speaker emphasized the fact that if many people did not care for the souls of men and women, God and the church did. The church is an institution to care for Christian believers and to save from the sins of the world.

This evening Rev. Simpson will preach on "The Three Crosses". The service will be known as Men's Night. Special seats will be reserved. There will be a song by the men and a selection by a male quartet.

From all indications it is believed that the meetings will be unusually successful, as was evidenced by the great interest that was taken at the first meeting of the campaign. There were 14 adults who united with the church yesterday on profession of faith.

Women Should Not Become Hysterical

Women of New Castle should not become hysterical because they see a man walking to and fro on the sidewalk.

He may have a date.

Saturday night a man, prominent here, had a date to meet the idol of his dreams.

A call went to police.

The police went to the scene.

They got their man—but he was just an ordinary, hard working fellow who had a date and unfortunately picked out a dark spot in a dark street to meet his lady love.

Police released him immediately from suspicion.

Then again, a lady who said a man had peered into her windows gave a wrong description to police.

When the police arrived a few minutes later they found the man's tracks in the snow.

But the description given first to police and later did not tally.

The man had disappeared, but having two descriptions the police did not know which man to look for.

Here are a few "Don'ts".

Just because a man walks along a sidewalk gives no reason to accuse him of being the "burglar".

Just because a man stops to light a pipe, cigar or cigarette near your home doesn't say he is a burglar.

Just because a man leaves his girl's house late at night is no reason the neigbbors should claim he is a burglar.

Here are a few "Do It Quicks".

If you see a man peering in your window do not become excited. Take the telephone, tell Central "No 8, quick!"

Give your name and address first.

Give the nature of the complaint second.

Give the proper description third.

Give the police a chance—a few minutes to get there—they have several fast automobiles ready for instant use.

The burglar hysteria is all wrong. New Castle isn't overrun with "bad men" to the extent that they can do as they will.

How true it is that so often our cherished vacations do not materialize because at the last minute we find we cannot very well spare the money that the trip will require. Every year thousands of men and women must change their vacation plans at the last minute and suffer keen disappointment because of this. The Vacation Club furnishes the solution to this problem and guarantees the realization of your plans.

It is so easy to lay aside a dollar or two a week during the year that no one really misses the money. Whereas, if provision is not made in advance for the vacation trip it is very often a real hardship or actually impossible to spare the money when the time comes to go.

Every man and woman has some particular way of putting in their vacation that to them is ideal. Your idea of the best kind of a vacation may be a trip to Florida or California in the winter or you may want to see the National Parks or go hunting and fishing in Canada in summer. Wherever it is you want to go the Vacation Club offers you the easiest possible way.

Another advantage of the Vacation Club lies in the fact that it teaches the habit of saving and accumulating money. Just as the Christmas Club has made successful savers of hundreds of thousands of men and women who had never been able to save a cent before, so the Vacation Club will do much to build character and teach the habit of thrift.

Start your Vacation Club account now. You will find a complete list of them on this page.

Your first deposit of 50 cents, $1.00, $2.00 or more enrolls you as a member of the Vacation Club and starts you on the road to the realization of what should be the best vacation you have ever had.

Crowded Street Car Crashes Into Pole After Jumping Track

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 24.—Veered off its course by a split switch, a speeding street car crowded with Sunday passengers crashed into two iron poles at the curb of a downtown street here, causing injuries to eight persons, all of whom today were being treated for cuts and bruises. Several others narrowly escaped injuries in the panic which followed the crash.

The front truck of the street car turned out at a curve, jerking the rear truck out of position, officials said, causing the rear of the car to crash against the poles. The car was badly damaged.

Today Anniversary Of Telegraph Start

Eighty-nine years ago January 24, 1838, Prof. Samuel F. B. Morse, an impecunious portrait painter and lecturer at New York University, gave the first public exhibition of the Morse Magnetic Telegraph, which was to revolutionize the world and contribute as much to the social, political and economic advancement of the United States as any other single factor.

From the nucleus of that apparatus which Morse used 89 years ago has grown the gigantic electro-magnetic telegraph system of today, embracing 6,549,556 miles of wire throughout the world, and connecting virtually every center of population of consequence on the surface of the earth. Of this mileage 2,220,002 miles, or approximately one-third, are located within the boundaries of the United States, and one concern alone, the Western Union Telegraph Company, operates alone 1,603,760 miles, as well as 28,600 nautical miles of submarine cables.

Successful Revival Concludes Sunday In First Baptist

Rev. Mel Morris Delivers Closing Message Of Three Weeks Campaign

A very successful evangelistic campaign closed last night at the First Baptist church. For three weeks Rev. Melvin G. Morris of Greensboro, Md., has been preaching the gospel with great power and effectiveness. About forty made a public profession of Jesus Christ during the meetings, of whom fifteen were adults. Mr. Morris has won a firm and lasting place in the esteem and affections of the Bible loving people of New Castle, by his simple, clear cut, forceful, uncompromising, and unwavering preaching of the old time gospel.

Mr. Morris' work was free from any objectionable features, he uses no brass band methods and is perfectly fair and honest with his audience, never ensnaring them in any clever traps as is the practice with some evangelists. Mr. Morris leaves with a host of friends not only in the First Baptist church but also among the other Christian people of the city, a great many of whom attended the services regularly. At the evening service a free will offering amounting to nearly six hundred dollars was presented to Evangelist Morris.

During the Sunday school hour and also at the morning preaching service Mr. Morris gave Gospel chalk talks, at which kind of work he is a master, having been at one time a special illustrator. The crowd sat in wrapt attention as the artist portrayed the various steps in the Christian life. A number of decisions were made at these services.

In spite of the icy pavements the auditorium was more than filled at the evening service. Mr. Morris preached on the subject "Humanity's S. O. S." taking his text from Jeremiah 8:20, "The harvest is past ,the summer is ended and we are not saved." The last two words of the text "not saved" was the theme of his sermon. In a most graphic manner he pictured humanity as a great ship which has been wrecked upon the rocks of sin through the disobedience of Adam. He then pictured the good ship Salvation coming to the rescue with the Lord Jesus as its captain. As the ship Salvatiton anchored near the wreckage, scarlet life lines were thrown out to the shipwrecked people. Many by faith laid hold of the life line and were brought in safety onto the ship Salvation to their great joy. The preacher then pictured the life line being thrown to a man who is hanging to a piece of wreckage in imminent danger of being drowned. Instead of gladly taking the offered means of safety, he pictured the man turning aside with a sneer and saying "I won't take the life line, there are too many hypocrites on the ship," another man refused the life line because there was "too much to give up." He closed by giving a marvelous word picture of the awful fate of these salvation-rejecting persons as they later tried in vain to be saved. So graphic was Mr. Morris' description that one could almost hear the rumbling of the waves as they dashed upon the rocks bringing destruction to these presumptuous sinners. A number of adults responded Mr. Morris' closing invitation.

A spirited song service lead by Mr. John W. Owens opened the service, a solo by Mrs. Paul D. Weller and special numbers by the choir enriched the program. In prefacing his sermon. Mr. Morris expressed his appreciation of the loyal manner in which the members of the church had supported the meeting. He mentioned the workers in particular, he also paid a very high tribute to the New Castle News for its most courteous treatment of him and for the splendid reports which it gave each day of his sermons, thereby greatly extending the usefulness of the meetings. Pastor George Zinz of the Bethlehem Baptist church dismissed his evening service and attended the meeting together with his congregation, there was also a large representation from the Hungarian Baptist church of the city. At the close of the service the whole audience marched forward and shook hands with Mr. Morris while the choir sang "God be with you till we meet again."

Mr. Morris left on the midnight train for Greensboro, Md. Wednesday evening he begins a campaign in the First Baptist church of New Cumberland, W. Va., which will be followed by a campaign in Wooster, Ohio.

Chaplin Ordered Back To Bed By His Physicians

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Charlie Chaplin was ordered back to bed today by his physician, for furtner rest to recuperate from the nervous breakdown which resulted from his legal troubles.

Meantime Nathan Burkan, his attorney, was in Washington prepared to begin his promised effort to settle the movie comedian's income tax difficulties with the government, so that Charlie may release enough of his fortune to carry on his screen work and to fight the divorce suit brought by his young wife, Lita Grey Chaplin.

If satisfactory arrangements can be made Burkan expects to post a bond large enough to lift the liens through which the government tied up more than $1,000,000 of Chaplin's fortune.

TROOP A WILL BE MUSTERED OUT

Plans Are Made For Disbanding Of Cavalry Troop In This City

Troop A. 104th U. S. Cavalry, for many years, an organization of this city and a unit of the national guard of Pennsylvania, is to be a thing of the past, as far as this community is concerned, in the immediate future, probably within a month, it was learned this morning.

Second Lieutenant Paul W. Keely, officer in charge of the troop at the present time, has received notice from headquarters to the effect that the troop it to be disbanded here and the members mustered out. While the exact time has not been designated, the indications are that it will be a matter of but a few weeks at the most.

The troop will be relocated in Clearfield, Pa., as intimated at the time that it was announced from Harrisburg, that it was planned to move the troop from this city.

When the troop has been disbanded, it will be the first time in a period of many years, in which there has been no military unit of some kind located in this city.

The troop was called for the inspection of horses Sunday morning.

NO USE CRYING, ETC.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 24.—The old proverb, "There is no use crying over spilled milk," came into its own here when a milk wagon, heavily loaded, skidded on the ice at the west end and toppled over an embankment. Many cases of milk were destroyed and the horses and driver were slightly injured.

After the "Flu" is over —you need a Tonic

Help Is Needed To Restore Your Wasted Strength And Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and run down. In such cases a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and debilitated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the diease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu" you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Predicts Alaska Reindeer Meat To Become Popular

(International News Service)

SPOKANE, Jan. 24.—Vilhjamur Stefansson, noted polar explorer, declares that reindeer meat from Alaska will soon be popularly and widely served in America. To test the disposition of travelers through the Northwest on this question, the Northern Pacific railway has begun serving reindeer steaks from Nome, Alaska, on dining cars.

The demand for "polar venison" was inaugurated the other day by Mr. Stefansson, while a passenger on the "North Coast Limited" of the Northern Pacific from Fargo, N. D. to Spokane, Wash., he ordered "reindeer steak." While the order was an unusual one the reindeer meat was secured by telegraph and served to the distinguished explorer before he left the train.

Reindeer meat is becoming more and more easily procurable with the development of the business of furnishing it to large hotels in the East, it is said. The animals are being shipped via Seattle in increasing quantities.

"Reindeer is commonly thought of as a wild creature of the frozen North," A. W. Thomson, superintendent of Northern Pacific diners said. "Contrary to this general opinion, the reindeer that is shipped to this country is a domesticated animal raised especially for food purposes.

"The meat is fine-flavored and fine-grained. It has the juiciness of beef and the delicacy and tenderness of venison. The fine flavor is somewhat akin to that of young venison, and when properly prepared, is relished by many.

"Herding these reindeer has become a vast industry in Alaska, and ample provision has been made for proper killing, dressing and handling," Mr. Thomson said.

MOTHER IS SHOT DEAD AS DAUGHTER PLAYS WITH LOADED PISTOL

KENOSHA, Wis., Jan. 24. — Mrs. Rollie Wade was shot and killed when her daughter, Edna 17, playfully pointed a revolver at her and pulled the trigger. She did not know it was loaded. The tragedy occured in the Wade home, near here, while Mrs. Wade was preparing dinner in observance of her forty-fourth birthday.

Coroner Joseph Friend announced there would be no investigation, giving "accidental death" as the cause. The daughter is under care of a physician.

Your Income Tax

Income Tax in a Nutshell:

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $3,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

WHEN? The filing period ends March 15, 1927.

WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? Instructions on Forms 1040A and 1040; also the law and regulations.

WHAT? One and one half per cent normal tax on the first $4,000 in excess of the personal exemptions and credits. Three per cent normal tax on the next $4,000. Five per cent normal tax on the balance of net income. Surtax on net income in excess of $10,000.

No. 7

All net income up to $5,000, whether actually earned or not, is considered earned net income for the purpose of computing the 25 per cent credit on such income. Hundreds of returns are received showing net incomes in excess of $5,000, part of which was earned income—from salary, wages, professional fees, etc.—and part of which was not earned. Following is an example of how to compute correctly the tax due on such a return:

A taxpayer, married and with no dependents, received in 1926 a salary of $4,000 and from a real estate transaction made a net profit of $4,000. His personal exemption is $3,500. The tax rate is 1½ per cent on the first $4,000, in excess of such exemption, and 3 per cent on the remainder:

Net income	$8,000
Less personal exemption	3,500
Balance, taxable income	4,500
1½ per cent on first $4,000	60
3 per cent on the remaining $500	15
Total tax	75

But of the $8,000 net income $5,000 is considered as earned net income. From 5,000, therefore, is deducted the personal exemption of $3,500, the tax on the remaining $1,500, at 1½ per cent, amounting to $22.50. Deduct one-foruth of $22.50, or $5.63, from $75, leaving payable a tax of $69.37.

Columbus In Drive On Smoke Nuisance

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 24.—In an effort to conserve the health of its citizens, and to reduce an economic loss which is estimated to total millions of dollars annually, Columbus has begun an education drive to reduce the smoke nuisance.

"Columbus already has taken the title of the "Smoky City" from Pittsburgh," declared one engineer who is campaign leader." "Pittsburgh has spent several millions of dollars to abate the smoke nuisance, and remarkable results have been achieved; while the situation in Columbus has steadily been growing worse, until now Columbus is a far smokier city than the Pennsylvania metropolis."

Ohio soft coal, it was pointed out, is naturally one of dirtiest fuel products known, and improper methods of burning it aggravate the smoke menace.

The campaign will include wide distribution of information relative to the scientific methods of firing furnaces and boilers, to obtain the maximum heat with the minimum waste of by-products, which pass out 'chimneys as smoke.

SOPHS CALLED "DARLINGS"

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 24.—A gang of self-styled "hard boiled" sophomores from the University of Delaware have turned out to be mere "darlings." The second year men sitting in the gallery of a local theater in which Miss Alice Brady was appearing, were showering flour and sundry articles on a group of freshmen beneath. Miss Brady's appeal for them to be "darlings" quelled the riot, but now the presence of a sophomore among the freshmen at the university a loud snicker.

Fine for Children!

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the eliminative tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath, and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely known family physician of Ohio, prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from six years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. Recoginzed by their olive color, Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets overcome those irritable spells that many children are subject to, keep their bodies in active healthy condition, skin clear and eyes bright with the light of perfect health. 15c, 30c and 60c sizes.

Charge Negro With Murder Of Four

Mother And Three Children Perish As Home Burns; Negro Held

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 24.—Information charging Perry Weeks, a negro, with murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Marie Williams and her three children at Lambert, near here, two weeks ago, was made today before a local alderman.

Weeks was grilled for four days, authorities said, before they established a theory that he was jealous of Mrs. Williams, wife of a negro miner.

Mrs. Williams' body, together with those of two children, were found in their flaming home, apparently murdered. A baby, carried from the home, died of injuries suffered in the fire.

Russian Income Tax Payers Are Steeped In Wo

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Jan. 24.—American income taxpayers may derive a grain of comfort by regarding how much worse off are their Russian partners in misery. Statistics just published by the tax bureau of commissariat of finance show that Russians with an income of more than $5,000 a year had to pay an income tax of $2,150 this year. And next year, announces the tax bureau, this 43 per cent tax will be increased!

The reason for this projected increase is to be found in the surprising fact that this year there were 6,000 persons in the Soviet Union who paid taxes on incomes of more than $5,000 in spite of the crushingly heavy levy.

This is only one-fifth of the number of such taxpayers before the revolution. But it is considered as highly significant of the inroads of "capitalistic" enterprise on "socialism" that only five years after the New Economic Policy was announced, 6,000 persons are paying taxes on incomes of 10,000 roubles a year.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Jan. 24.—Injuries to her head when she plunged 50 feet down an elevator shaft at a local department store January 15 have restored the sense of hearing to Miss Gladys Baker 22, saleswoman at the store. Relatives and friends of the girl permitted to see her at the Allegheny hospital were amazed to discover that Miss Baker could hear them and talk without effort. Before the accident it had been necessary almost to shout in conversation with the young woman. She had been deaf since she was eight years old.

Chaplin Bares Soul In Talk With Reporters

Famous Comedian Fears Artistic "Spark" May Be Snuffed Out.

Reveals Fact That He Is Not Through With Women.

By DAVID P. SENTNER,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—With a tragic smile upon his lips, Charles Spencer Chaplin, the world's foremost screen comedian, has bared his soul as he told of his domestic difficulties.

Chaplin spoke of his ability as an actor as "variable and frail" and he has fears that this artistic spark might be snuffed out by the blight which has been brought upon his life by his wife's suit for divorce and her sensational charges.

It was Charlie's "final interview." No more—Or at least for a long time—will he discuss his private affairs. He is going to take the background and let the lawyers fight things out.

Chaplin said that bond will be posted in Washington today with the government to cover the amount involved in the income tax proceedings instituted against the comedian.

Nathan Burkan, Chaplin's lawyer, and Arthur W. Kelly, his business manager were present. In the center of the room was a large tea urn and a plate of sandwiches and cakes. Charlie passed out cigars to the reporters. He showed traces of his recent illness and there was nothing of the comedian either in his appearance or his talk. He was serious; at times tragic, although he tried to smile.

"Do you still love your wife?" one of the reporters asked. "Once," replied Chaplin, "I was very happy with my wife. I was contented with our home life and our prospects. But my wife was misguided. She has no sense of responsibility. She has been mislead by others. Ah, but this is a very unfortunate affair—A most unfortunate affair."

May Fall Again

Chaplin said the question whether he was still in love with his wife was an unfair one, he thought, under the circumstances. Then a reporter asked him:

"Will you fall in love again."

"I hope so—sincerely," replied the film star with no trace of a smile upon his lips."

"Do you still like women?" asked another reporter.

"Why, of course," answered Charlie quickly. "There would not be so much delight without them."

Chaplin said he could not see how his wife could need $4,000 a month alimony. Both he and Burkan said that offers of money had been made to Mrs. Chaplin "many, many times," but that she had always refused it.

Once Chaplin was asked:

"Are you really without a penny, as has been reported in the press?"

The lawyer interposed, saying: "Charlie, you have no assets."

"Yes," assented that comedian, "that is right. I have none."

Lions To Hold Sweetie Meeting Tuesday Evening

The Lions club will hold a sweetheart meeting on Tuesday evening January 25, 1927 at the Elks club with dinner being served at 6 o'clock. Each of the Lions is to bring his sweetie to the meeting.

An appropriate program has been arranged for that should prove very interesting to everyone who attends. The program will embrace singing by the club, by the club quartette and solos; some readings and a short address. Some other special features will also be announced during the evening.

This is the first of the sweetheart meetings and it is likely that it will be followed by others every month or six weeks.

When the Lions entertain the Lady Lions they do so in an elaborate manner and the party Tuesday evening will be a mid winter pleasure that few members and their ladies will want to miss.

There will be no meeting on Tuesday noon, the evening meeting being the only one for this week.

England Withdraws Five Battle Ships

By CHARLES A. SMITH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON Jan. 24.—Partly in accordance with the terms of the Washington Arms Treaty and partly for reasons of economy five battleships bearing some of the most distinguished names in British naval history will be withdrawn from active service with the British navy at once.

They are the King George the Fifth, Ajax, Centurnion, Agamemnon and Thunderer and their ultimate end will be the scrap yard. King George the Fifth, Ajax and Centurion are sister ships laid down together and completed by March 1912. Their main armament is provided by ten 13.5 inch guns. Thunderer and Agamemnon are slightly smaller ships completed in 1911.

Two of these ships necessarily had to be scrapped under the terms of the Washington Treaty to make way for the Nelson and Rodney, the two new super battleships now approaching completion in British shipyards, the others are being withdrawn as part of the economy wave now sweeping British officialdom.

How vigorous this economy campaign is may be judged from the following list of ships which have been scrapped during the past 12 months. During this period have gone enough ships to make a respectacle size navy including three destroyer depot ships, seven cruisers, 17 destroyers and numberable smaller craft.

The personnel especially among the higher grades has also been reduced by an appreciable amount and fears are being expressed that they will never have a chance at promotion in future years.

Growth Of Texas Shown By Figures In State Report

(International News Service)

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 24.—The phenomenal growth of the state of Texas during the last 20 years told graphically in the language of figures, without embellishments, in the biennial report of Mrs. Emma Grigsby Meharg, secretary of state, recently submitted.

Receipts in the state department according to Mrs. Meharg, have increased from $92,000 per annum, 20 years ago, to $1,500,000 per annum during the biennium just terminated. This, the report stated, was an increase of 1700 per cent. Appropriations for handling this vast increase, however, according to the secretary of state's report, have increased only 50 per cent.

Because of the great increase in business transacted by the office of the secretary of state, Mrs. Meharg recommended that the 40th legislature, which convened this month, authorize the secretary of state to appoint two assistants, giving each the authority to act as head of the department during the absence of the secretary.

A constitutional amendment which would increase the salary of the secretary of state was also recommended by Mrs. Meharg. The present salary, $2,000 per annum, fixed in 1876, is totally inadequate now, she said.

Among several recommendations embodied in the report was one which would seek the elimination of 100 statutory purposes for which corporations may be formed in Texas, thereby enabling corporations to be formed for any purpose not in conflict with existing laws.

British Troops Prepare To Leave For Hongkong Port

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Scenes reminiscent of real war days were enacted in England today. While a thousand royal marines prepared to embark at Portsmouth for service in Hongkong, the assembling of five crack battalions for China service proceeded at Catterick Camp, Yorkshire.

Hundreds of reservists have been called to the colors, and are joining up.

The liner Minnesota which was due at Portsmouth today to take on the marines was reported delayed in the Scheldt by fog, which would probably make embarkation today impossible.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all know drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory disease, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Sesqui Still Costing $30,000 Week Though Closed December 31

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—The Sesqui-centennial Exposition, closed officially December 31, is still costing Philadelphia taxpayers $30,000 weekly, according to E. L. Austin, director.

He said the exposition association still maintains a staff of 60 or more clerks in its accounting and transportation division, that six or eight executives are being carried on the payroll and that 200 or more laborers are employed by the works department. In addition to these, a staff of auditors is costing about $3,000 a day, he asserted.

BODY OF MAN SLAIN FOUND IN DIRT ROAD NEAR VALLEY CAMP

GREENSBURG, Jan. 24.— Although motorists passed all night long over the dirt road from Valley Camp station to the Valley Camp Coal Company's plant, it was not until this morning discovery was made that a man lying directly in the wheel path of machine had been murdered.

Deputy Coroner Charles Brush of New Kensington and Constable Fred Matthews of Arnold were notified. The murdered man was identified as Rocco Muccio, 44, of 731 Fourth avenue, New Kensington, an aluminum worker.

Remarkable Oil Painting On View At City Mission

E. J. Berquist, superintendent of the City Rescue Mission has in his possession at the present time, an oil painting, which is attracting much attention. In size it is 12 feet long, and 5 feet wide, and might be called, a pictorial allegory.

The painting is remarkably well done, and is the work of a Buffalo artist, Harriet Cole Haist, who was inspired to the work by hearing Mr. Berquist preach in Buffalo, from a text from Isaiah.

In the left hand corner of the painting is the picture of the Crucifixion. Grouped around the figures of Christ and the Two Thieves are the High Priests, the Centurion with the spear in his hand, Mary Magdalen and her women friends, and Roman soldiers rolling dice for Christ's vesture.

In the center is a picture of the Risen Christ with hands outstretched, appealing to a group of worldly people who are in a cafe, drinking, gambling and dancing, and to the right of the revelers, scientists searching the crystal ball in an effort to discredit the truth of the Bible.

The picture is a rather remarkable one, and will be the subject of a sermon in the near future. It is hung in the Rescue Mission and is on display.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

Impenetrable Barriers

By Claire Wesson

BETTY CARR turned her little purse upside down and ruefully counted its meagre contents. The same old story! The end of the month and a balance of only one dollar and forty cents. There had never been as much as a two dollar balance in it for over a year. With all the time she had to spare, there didn't seem to be a single thing in the whole village of Sharon that she could do to make a little extra money.

Their long delayed visit to their Western home, which she and John hadn't seen since their marriage eight years ago, seemed as far away as ever.

However, country roads were beautiful with Queen Anne lace just now. She and Buddy would take a walk to the drugstore at the end of the road and leisurely eat their ice cream in the little ice cream parlor over the river.

Presently, as the two sat watching the swirling river beneath them rush on to the falls to splash over variicolored rocks, Betty wondered why so many of the villagers left their homes, in the Summer, when beauty, which Spring thaws unlocked, lay all about them.

Walking slowly home again through aisles of Queen Anne lace which nodded airily as they passed, she began to draw on her mental resources of compensation, to offset present worries.

"Wasn't she the lucky mother to have a boy as easily pleased as Buddy? Just this little outing had enlivened him—"

"Look, mother, look! Blackberries, thick as flies!"

"Come away, come away—you're in the 'queer woman's meadow," she whispered to her little son. And then they both started back when a hearty laugh reached them from behind the hedge, and a woman stepped out—a large, masculine woman, with a full basket of berries.

Her eyes were laughing. She looked appreciatively at the little scene before her—at Buddy, standing defensively before his mother, looking the "queer woman" straight in the face.

"If your lad likes blackberries, help yourself. I have plenty."

This was so pleasantly said that Buddy relaxed his guard and pulled his mother forward through the hedge.

So this was what was behind that dense hedge that no eyes could penetrate! Trees and berries galore. And this was the "queer woman!" Betty looked curiously at her.

"She doesn't belong to any of our clubs or sewing circles; she frankly told me we spent more time gossiping than in doing good," little Mrs. Wilson had told Betty when she had moved there. "Works in her garden like a man and sells her stuff—she's 'queer.'" And pretty Mrs. Wilson had sniffed.

"I never saw so many berries all at once in all my life," said Betty, when she had recovered her poise.

"I sell 'em in the city," said the woman with satisfaction. "I have my regular customers. My only trouble is in gettin' pickers here. Want to help?" she asked practically. "Fifty cents an hour, steady. You and your lad could easily make three dollars an afternoon, and get your own Winter supply as well."

"Give us a pail," said Buddy suddenly, and they began right away, and worked up to the time for Betty to get John's supper. Before Summer was over they had canned and sold all the fruit and vegetables on the "queer woman's" miniature farm.

"You're like I was at your age," observed the woman to Betty one day. "Husband and you working like mad and not a cent in the bank, I bet."

Betty's eyes snapped.

"It won't always be—" she began heatedly.

"No. Something's bound to break right for a young fellow that plows his way through Winter snows, to catch his train to the city at 7 o'clock cold Winter mornings, for three years."

"You've noticed that?" asked Betty, with a catch in her voice.

"Oh, yes, I've noticed you, too, staying home Summers, envying the overweights, who'll come home fatter than ever."

Betty laughed at that. Who, of fair-weather friends, had ever noticed the things that had been seriously worrying her? This "queer woman" had touched upon them all. John's missing his train on stormy mornings and having to wait another hour in an icy station for the next, the meagre bank account that forbade her going away in Summer like the rest of her neighbors.

"Jed Turner's wife is tied up with rheumatism and he's lookin' for someone to do up their Elbertas that have begun to fall. You go up there and help out. Swap part of your labor for eggs and poultry and you'll be all set for the Winter."

"I've never told you a thing and you've thought out my whole problem for me," said Betty, with tears in her eyes.

"I've had to think and think hard all the days of my life," said the woman, "and I'm passing along the things I have learned. There is always a way out of your difficulties. Sometimes you have to work hard to find it, yet sometimes it lies within reach of your hand."

Betty went to Jed Turner's farm and did up their peaches, fed their chickens and put down their eggs. She wrote to her Western home for her grandmother's recipe for rheumatism and rubbed it faithfully into Mrs. Turner's rheumatic knees until she was up and about again.

John built extra cupboards and hanging shelves, and carted clean sand in, in which they buried Winter vegetables. The "queer woman" came over and canned the chicken Jed Turner gladly sent them whenever he had a killing.

When the first snowstorm came and drifted high against the gate and Betty was getting John's breakfast a bit earlier to allow for the usual plow through the snow, she heard a noisy jangle, and there was Jed Turner on a home-made snow plow made of two beams and a cross section, driving his big bay through the swirling snow to her gate.

"The wife wants yer over this afternoon," he shouted. "I've cleared the way fer ye."

"Drive on to the station, Jed," she called back, and Jed willingly did what he was told, and made the way clear for the men who later stepped out onto a clear road on their way to work, with no fear of missing their train.

Betty gazed after the retreating form of her husband walking briskly along towards the station.

"How right she was," she reflected looking through the dense hedge through which no eyes could penetrate. There is always a way. Sometimes you have to search hard to find it—sometimes it is just within reach of your hand."

The Professor Explains.

The professor of a medical college was to give a talk to some students. He arrived rather late and began to talk as he entered the room.

"I have taken apart a frog and will explain the different organs," he said.

He undid a package and out came two sandwiches and a piece of cake.

Drab Gold

By Margaret Taylor

EVERY time she thought of Peggy, the monster had gnashed its teeth and snapped its bright green eyes until Melda nearly went crazy. Peggy was her only sister. She loved her, too. There was no doubt about that. But for Peggy to have everything, and Melda to have nothing, seemed hardly fair.

Peggy, with Mrs. Brooks Fielding engraved on her cards! Peggy, with her mansion in town, her luxurious Summer house by the sea, and her well-trained servants! Peggy, with her priceless silver and jewels! Peggy, pressing a hasty kiss on 4-year-old Jackie's adorable mouth, and sending him off with a white-capped nurse! The green-eyed monster grinned mercilessly!

It was the monster that kept Melda from marrying Philip—Philip of the laughing eyes, the strong arms that could lift Melda way off her feet, and hold her until she begged for mercy; Philip, a carpenter, who had nothing but his strong hands, a loyal heart, and plenty of love for Melda. Melda kept putting him off. He must make more money. She must save more herself "for a rainy day." The steady job which Philip held was not enough. The little bungalow on the edge of the woods which Philip had built with his own two hands, and in which he harbored his dreams, was not enough.

Then came the accident! The brakes had not held. Brooks Fielding's car had plunged down an embankment, overturning the machine, and pinning its occupants fast under its huge bulk. Little Jackie's lifeless body had been extricated first. There was little hope for the white-capped nurse. Melda, despairing, went to see Peggy and Brooks at the hospital.

Brooks groaned under the burden of a plaster cast, but the weight of the accident had fallen upon Peggy. All Melda could see of her was her eyes, nose and mouth. The rest was bandages, rolls and rolls of it. Her hands were free, and she twisted the rings on her thin fingers, the narrow, jeweled bands of platinum of which Melda had been so envious. Peggy, with her beauty crushed out of her, was a different being from the light-hearted Peggy of the day before, with the grace and frailty of a Dresden china shepherdess and the austerity of a queen.

"Drab gold," she moaned, twisting and turning the rings, "that's all they are! That's all everything is. Why can't I die?"

"Don't," begged Melda.

Peggy suddenly became calm.

"Listen, Melda," she said. "We have made our will in your favor. There's nobody else, you know. Even if we live, what is there left? It's all been so drab. It's worse now. My looks are spoiled. Jackie is gone. That's all he loved me for, my looks and Jackie. As long as he could heap things on me to make me beautiful, things of drab gold, like these rings, as long as he could show off his son—"

The nurse at the door held up a warning hand. Melda obediently glided out. The nurse answered the unspoken question in her eyes.

Mrs. Fielding will be all right after a few weeks," she told Melda, "but her face will be badly scarred. She was lucky, though."

"And he?"

"He will be as fit as ever in a month or so."

Melda fled. She made straight for the bungalow on the edge of the woods. All the way her heart sang for joy that she would not have to be recipient of all the drab gold which could not make Peggy happy.

She put the tea kettle over the gas stove. She set the table for two. She knew that Philip would soon come to dream and to work.

"Have you still got the ring?" she asked, shyly.

"Think I'd pawned it?" he laughed. "And I still have this, too."

He took a folded yellow paper from his pocket. The license! Melda laid caressing hands over the plain gold band and the yellow paper, as they lay in his big, upturned palm.

"They are real gold," she said. "And this." Her eyes swept the simple homeliness of the sturdy little bungalow, the slanting rays of the setting sun across the table, the kettle singing on the stove. "There is nothing drab about this. Funny I couldn't see it before."

"Let's find the minister," he suggested. "Now."

The Old Stamping Ground

By Phil Moore

WE shall imagine ourselves back in grandmother's time the woods will seem so wild and tangled. I should like to bring home a souvenir—something real, to keep for years.

Lenna Cosner was elated, extremely so by the invitation to visit her mother's childhood home. The immediate family has drifted away from the spot, into cities and burghs where business opportunities had loomed. Now a cousin had purchased a farm in its original state. Autumn was at its best; the first frosts had re-tinted the dying verdure of forest and field.

She was reminded, however, that the region had undergone many changes. With telephones, autos and the various other modernizing influences at work it was foolish to suppose the locality purely primeval. City folk went thither for Summer homes; some of the less moneyed sent the younger set there to board by fortnights through the vacation season. Many lingered till Winter compelled them to seek cozy quarters, if not encumbered by school or business. Lenna's first day at her cousin's bungalow was sufficient to convince her she was not out of the world—not at all.

"A man from Elmont owns the old homestead," informed Cousin Mart. "They have lively times there—parties from 'most anywhere. Civil enough, though, but of the high-fly sort. Summer boarders bring their own kind, you know. The rest of us have our troubles—they help themselves to the cornfields and orchards, same as in the open woods."

"I suppose nothing remains to remind one of mother's days there." She confided her secret wish for a memento. "I might gather leaves or flowers from the home woods, and press them."

"You could take home a bag of nuts," suggested Vira, the daughter. "The walnuts, both kinds, are ready to gather."

Lenna's sense of sentiment was not measurable by nuts alone. Unknown to Vira, she folded a few pages of newspaper into her handbag, ready for the first day in the woods. By her method the leaves were pressed as gathered. The crimson and gold kept beckoning—she grew impatient lest the winds scatter them into the dank mould.

"Some of these farmers are sworn enemies to trespassers," apprised Vira. "They may be kindly, though, if they see me with you. There are two large butternut trees down the creek, and a black walnut that never fails—I'm told. We may find all we can carry, without going so far."

But the visitor's curiosity was aroused. To seek out those particular trees became an impelling wish. They filled the basket designed for the butternuts, the pale green oblong bits fitting snugly into every crevice of the wicker-work. The black walnuts—their thick, heavy coats making them about the size of a baseball—required more space than had been allowed.

"The best way is to hull them right here," explained Vira. "A flat stick and a smooth space to pound on, is father's way. We must be careful not to crack them. They are not fit to eat till they have been dry-cured in the sun."

"It's so—lonesome out here," shrugged Lenna. "Let's take them nearer home, to do that part of it."

"Nothing to be afraid of, you city lady!" was the retort. But they laughed good-naturedly.

One trip with baskets to carry was sufficient for Vira. She brought out the wheel-barrow, struggling comically to keep it balanced.

"We'll take this plank with the auger-hole in it. One of the neighbors told us it would save work in the hulling."

Intent on filling their baskets a second time, they did not note the approach of a huntsman. He was thoughtful to speak ere drawing too near, yet they sprang up with a cry of terror.

"You are more successful than I," he remarked. "Not a squirrel nor quail have I seen since early morning. May I assist you?"

He began to gather the walnuts, without awaiting permission. It was easy to note he was not of the country type, though a sportsman of long training. He gazed quizzically at their contrivance for hulling, they imagined he was laughing secretly.

"It saves one's hands," declared Vira, in defence. "This walnut stain is dreadful."

"But you have to take off that bit on each side, where the auger hole falls. Hey—that's my partner calling."

He placed both hands to his lips, sending a peculiar whistle piercing into the depths of the woods. A dog barked—an answering signal came in return.

Lenna and Vira wanted to hurry away to the farm house. Yet the stranger was pleasant company, they were assured. The farmer gathered her small bag with its press pages of paper, into which a few choice maple leaves had been inserted as prizes. Vira had watched her, but had made no comment as yet.

A lithe setter bounded through the underbrush, a youth following in a style quite huntsman-like. Lenna recognized the fellow, in spite of his heavy cap and canvas coat. She tried for the moment to make believe she did not.

"What does this mean?" He hurried forward, but apologized, introducing his friend and himself. Vira was puzzled by his interest in Lenna, busied now with the troublesome walnuts.

"Robbing the squirrels, since you have failed to exterminate them," said Vira. "However they could get to the kernel of a black walnut is a mystery."

"And here's another. Where have you been these two years, Miss Cosner? We were classmates at Practical Arts," he informed the audience of two.

Harvey Griffin forgot all but Lenna and reminiscences. Vira and the stranger were left to get acquainted—or not. The nuts were removed homeward; the squirrels were left to store their knot-holes undisturbed.

Lenna's collection of leaves, grasses and Autumn blossoms became a bulky one. In his own way, Griffin intimated that a real and lasting souvenir of the quaint stamping ground might one day be offered her.

"Where is the man who keeps this restaurant?" asked a disgusted patron.

"He's gone out to lunch," replied the waiter.

"It's a mistake for a man to go through life alone."

She (unsympathetic)—"Why don't you get your mother to chaperon you?"

The Matchmaker

By Clyde Weldon

THOUGHTFULLY Janet Stearns straightened the row of books on the table and adjusted the book-ends as she spoke. "No, Arthur, you couldn't rightly call me a matchmaker, for the match is practically made—just a kink that needs the touch of a master hand, that's all."

"Then let Daphne supply the touch. You pretty near ran your feet off waiting on her last Summer. I shouldn't think you'd be so keen on having her here again soon."

"I'm not, dear, but the poor child's letters are really pathetic, she asks so eagerly for news of Roger Fairlee. Every time I meet Roger he inquires for Daphne with such a wistful look. I know exactly what stands between them.

"It's Daphne's pernicious habit of letting folks wait on her. She gives a wrong impression, for she's really awfully capable and energetic when it's necessary. If she had a home of her own she'd have far too much pride to let it go at sixes and sevens. But Roger doesn't know that. He sees her as a most adorable, but very indolent young lady, who has none of the characteristics of the model wife for a poor young man. He's afraid to take a chance."

"What do you propose to do about it? You might go to Roger and tell him that Daphne is really a whiz at all kinds of hard labor, but he'd hardly believe it after last Summer. Remember the day we had the picnic at Lake Wild, when Daphne first came? She let you fix the cloth and spread the whole dinner without a single interruption, and she sent Roger to the car for pillows that she might be comfortable while she watched you do it. Oh, yes; Roger sized her up, all right, as the tired little girl who lies in the hammock while Mamma brings the cold lemonade and the fan!"

"I'm afraid he did, and it's too bad, because first impressions are so lasting. When Daphne's sister's mother-in-law was so ill, last year, Daphne took charge of that great houseful of nephews and nieces and kept things running just like clockwork. When Clarissa, that's the sister, came home, Daphne insisted on staying another two weeks, and Clarissa said she hadn't felt so free from responsibilities for a single day since she'd been married. That's the real Daphne, and Roger ought to know it."

"Uh-huh! Go to it, then! Get in your best work, but remember that the best laid plans of mice and women, and likewise the old familiar saying, 'I told you so!'"

"I'm going to write, anyway, and ask Daphne down for a few days next week," and Janet sat down at her desk with a determined air.

The invitation was a joyous surprise to Daphne and was accepted with alacrity. She did not stop to analyze her feelings to discover why she should be so delighted at the prospect of a visit to the Stearnses at this season of the year, when life in a small country town was bound to be dull. In fact, she scarcely thought of the Stearnses at all.

Janet greeted her affectionately and Arthur did his best to amuse her on the first evening, but, as the minutes ticked away and no one mentioned the subject nearest her heart, Daphne's spirits sank lower and lower.

"Arthur," Janet announced as they were putting out the lights, "you are to ask Roger for dinner tomorrow evening, and be sure that he comes. Don't tell Daphne, but telephone about two that you are bringing a friend home with you. You needn't tell Roger that Daphne is here either."

Next morning at the breakfast table Janet complained that she felt one of her nervous headaches coming on.

"Then you won't want—Ouch!" The splash of coffee that struck Arthur's hand was hot but the eye fixed upon him was quite the reverse.

At lunch time Janet managed a cupful of strong tea, to be supplemented later with sandwiches and fruit in her own room. The headache seemed to grow steadily worse.

At 2 o'clock came the telephone message.

"Daphne, what shall I do?" wailed Janet, as she repeated the message. "Arthur hung up so quickly, and I haven't an idea where to find him."

"Do?" repeated Daphne. "Why feed them, of course."

"But I can't. This dreadful headache—"

"Don't give it a thought," urged Daphne ambiguously. "This telephone connects with butcher and baker, doesn't it? Take your headache and trot along."

Janet "trotted," reflecting that Daphne didn't seem over-sympathetic.

Daphne and Roger were mutually surprised and delighted at seeing each other. By happy chance Daphne was wearing Roger's favorite color. Also, by some strange coincidence, the dinner, from the oyster cocktail to the coffee, with the least bit of cream, was composed of the dishes for which he had an especial fondness. Amazement at Daphne's unsuspected capabilities was followed by incredulity, belief, and lastly, blind adoration, which all left their stamp on Roger's face as the dinner progressed.

At the finish, Arthur jovially gathered up all the dishes within his reach and formed of them a precarious pile. "Come on, everybody. Let's stack the dishes and listen to the bed time story!"

"Stack nothing!" retorted Daphne. I loathe stacked dishes. Go along to your bed time story, I'll be the tidy kitchen maid."

"And I," announced Roger, will be the maid's willing helper."

A rattle of china, murmuring voices and, finally, complete silence from kitchenward. "Arthur," Janet said softly, "I believe it worked."

"What worked. Well—gosh! That headache was faked, and me pouring out real sympathy all the time. Might've known!"

"Sympathy? Who said sympathy?" boomed Roger from the doorway. "We don't want it. We've washed your dishes and we wish to announce that we'll be washing our own in the near future."

"Thanks, darling, thanks a lot," Daphne murmured as Janet sprang up and enfolded the blushing fiancee in her arms. "If you'd waited until my door was closed before you gave Arthur his instructions last night I might have worried a lot more over you today!"

True Word in Jest.

A lecturer says in despair, "Where will women stop?"

"Don't worry, friend; they generally stop in the middle of the sidewalk."

"Now," said the lawyer, "you're sure you've told me everything—the whole truth?"

"Certain sure. My old woman she says, 'Tell him the truth,' she says: 'Leave him to put in the lies.'"

The Lure of the City

By Parke Whitney

HELLO, sweetie, sighing again for the city?" Ladd Anderson put an arm around her waist, and Martha jerked herself free.

"No," she said shortly, and went into the house. On the back porch steps, left to his own thoughts, Ladd whistled "Whew," and meant it.

Everyone in Farmhill knew that Martha and he were practically engaged, only Martha had not definitely said "yes," and never allowed Ladd to act in any way like an engaged man. Of course, people wondered often why they were not engaged, or even married, and thinking of that made Ladd jump into his car, and step on the gas pretty near to 40. He didn't go home. As he put it in his own words to George Oswell, half an hour later in the city of Kirkland, he, Ladd Anderson, was not "a man of wood."

"Now, it would provoke any man, George, to have a girl hold off for a little thing like the city," Ladd was saying, "and I'd appreciate a good turn from you more than I can tell. You fix it to suit yourself."

Contrary to what Martha had told Ladd, she had been longing for the city. Sometimes, it seemed to her that the brown fields, the woods and orchard, her father's whole farm, in fact, were closing about her like a net. When she was a tiny girl, the dreariness of the Winter landscape of miles and miles of snow, and the sinister dark woods, had made Martha sit down and pretend she was a girl in a large city, where there were other little girls to play with, and wonderful churches, museums and theaters to attend. When Martha grew older, the beautiful fancy began to take a definite form, modeled along the lines of Kirkland, which she had visited in her father's truck every Saturday night.

Saturday night! The words were magic itself to Martha; magic compounded of a surging sea of faces, people you didn't know, but whom it was fine to jostle against, or brilliantly-lighted shop windows, and their display of flesh-colored silky things; of the toilet articles, powder and perfumes in a drug store case; of the winking electric signs on the theaters, and the sound of distant orchestras.

When Saturday night came around, Martha climbed into Ladd's car, all pepped up for a good time.

In the city.

"Sorry, I can't take you to the movies tonight, Martha," Ladd began in a strained voice. "Business engagement, and a lot of farm equipment to buy. Suppose I should have told you before, but I thought you could keep busy shopping." He didn't dare look at Martha's disappointed face. Going to the movies together Saturday night had almost become a rite.

"Very well." Martha got out of the car, but it was evident that all wasn't right. "I'll be back about 9."

She stumbled along blindly. How dared Ladd disappoint her! It was just selfish of him. Farm equipment! He could come over and buy it any other time.

Then Martha noticed someone approaching her.

"Hello, George," she said gladly. George Oswell was a friend of high school days, who had moved to Kirkland several years before.

"Ladd around?" George asked after greeting her, and Marcha answered indignantly. "Buying farm equipment instead of taking me to the movies."

"Movies? Say, would you like me to take you?" Then to her "no" he urged, "Let me show you the sights. I'm a city guy, you know." And he looked it.

"You're rich just to live here." Martha quivered, and George tucked her closer, and stopped to admire the shop windows with her.

They went on to a drug store. "If you weren't Ladd's friend"—George leaned toward her confidentially—"I'd get you a cocktail in another place." Cocktail! Well, a "city guy" must be forgiven some things. Martha observed George's slick hair, his well-manicured finger nails, and his clothes in the latest cut.

"I'll have a good time in spite of Ladd," she promised herself.

When she said, "Oh, I'd love a dance," he didn't say, as Ladd would, "haven't time tonight." George said, "Come on."

At last Martha looked at the clock and it was almost 9.

"I'm sorry; I told Ladd I'd be back by 9." But George only held her closer and looked down in her eyes. "Forget him," he finally said.

"But I've got to go," Martha persisted, laughing and trying to pull away. His arms were like chains. Suddenly, Martha was frightened. "Let me go," she demanded.

"Hey—Whadda ya think this is? Your birthday? Whadda ya think I've been treating you so swell for? We're not through, girlie." His face was close to hers, and his breath was hot. Martha shrieked and began to struggle.

"Let me go. Let me go," she screamed, fighting him. There was a commotion, and someone knocked George over the head. Martha, freed, ran out sobbing.

In Ladd's car, she began to cry again, like a frightened kitten. Ladd was terrified.

"What did he do to you? The brute, the brute! He didn't hurt you, Martha? George, I'll kill him—"

"So you put him up to it—You—"

"Martha, I was just trying to make you sick of the city, so we could get engaged. Honest! I wanted to teach you a lesson."

"You'll be disappointed," Martha cut him short severely, feeling safe and mistress of the situation. Then she saw Ladd's face, and her arms slipped up on his shoulders.

"But it did make me appreciate you, Ladd," she whispered. "Silly, I never wanted to live in the city anyway, only to see it on Saturday night."

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

By Florence Smith Vincent

PEEK-A-FOO!

Pixie had a merry heart and was very seldom solemn. But these were wise words that fell from his lips, and Peter never forgot them.

"If you can't say any good of a fellow, why say anything at all?"

Mistress Moo had learned a lesson, too. Being a cow and stubborn, she wouldn't admit it, but she stood, not saying a thing, chewing her cud as a cow always does when she is thinking something over.

Pixie, however, couldn't be serious long. Now that he said what he wanted to say he dropped the whole matter from his mind. A minute out of any day was about as long as he could bear to be still. Humming a queer little tune, he began to dance about on the Tiger Lily top, faster and faster. And before long a bright eye spied him and mistook him for a bumble bee. Whish! Down from the clouds swooped a big bird to gobble him up.

"Look out," cried Peter, and the little girl clapped her hands to warn Pixie whom the boy and girl had begun to like very much indeed. But Pixie only chuckled. He knew the bird was coming, had long ago spied him sailing high above his head and had hoped to bring him down so that he could tease him. And when the bird's beak was within a hair's width of Pixie's peaked cap Pixie slipped over a petal and out of sight, and the bird almost lost his balance from surprise. Then—

"Peek-a-boo!" cried Pixie, popping up from under a petal and making a naughty face at the bird and disappearing like a jack-in-the-box before the bird could as much as peck him.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed Peter.

"Tee, hee!" giggled the little girl.

"And try and catch me," cried Pixie ,sliding down the lily stem and hopping upon a stone.

"I'll get you now!" twittered the bird and did his best to. But Pixie, quicker than lightning jumped, kerplunk, into a clump of violets, and the violets folded their green leaves over him. And the bird bumped his beak and lost Pixie in the bargain, and flew off much disgusted, for by this time he had discovered it was Pixie and all the outdoors folks knew Pixie—playing tricks upon him.

Ford Completes His Vacation At Wayside Inn

(International News Service)

SOUTH SUDBURY, Mass., Jan. —Henry Ford on Saturday completed his vacation of one week at the historic Wayside Inn, a week crammed with activities of nation-wide interest and brought to close with a grand old-fashioned dance at the Inn.

Inviting all of the older folks of the village to the dance, Ford as host to a gathering whose every appearance and action brought forth memories of the day when the Charleston was yet unheard of and the waltz reigned supreme. Twenty of Sudbury's "old timers" were present and lavender and old lace was the fashion of the night. Pleased beyond expression was Mr. Ford with the concluding event of his week's stay. Not one dance did he miss. From the first waltz until the strains of "home sweet home" floated through the old Inn, Mr. Ford was to be found on the floor. The most intricate steps he knew with the grace of a village lady of years ago.

"You can never say anything may not be very useful some day," she said firmly. "Supposing our daughter marries a man named Ernest Jones, who is a dentist, how valuable it will be to have the name plate ready.

An old preacher told the boys of the Bible class what lesson he was going to read the following Sunday. The boys, finding the place, glued together the connecting pages. The next Sunday the preacher read on the bottom of one page: "When Noah was 120 years old he took unto himself a wife, who was (then turning the page) 140 cubits long, forty cubits wide, built of gopherwood, and covered with pitch inside and out." He was puzzled. He read again, verified the statement, and then said: "My friends, this is the first time I ever met this in the Bible, but I accept it as evidence of the assertion that we are fearfully and wonderfully made."

DINNER STORIES

The lure of the auction sales was responsible. Mrs. Brown had returned in triumph with a massive brass name plate with an inscription on it.

Mr. Brown pressed hard for an explanation. "Well, dear, it was such a bargain," she urged.

"But what on earth can you use it for?"

Mrs. Brown stuck to her guns.

AMERICAN LEAGUE MOGULS OUST BAN JOHNSON

Dynamic Leader Suffers Illness

League Moguls Meet In Chicago Sound "Knell" For Famous Figure.

DAYS ARE NUMBERED DOCTORS BELIEVE

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Taps echoed today over Ban Johnson as leader of the American league.

The gray and grizzled veteran of 27 years of stirring duels on the battlefields of baldom has become victim of a complication of illnesses which his friends and his physicians fear may be speedily fatal.

The club owners in his league have deemed it sufficient to incapacitate him as executive of their organization and today Johnson is only a "leave of absence" president without a vestige of official power.

Those men in his own league who came here yesterday with the thought of rebuking him and of dealing out punishment to him because of his criticisms of Kenesaw Landis, took their homeward trails today with flickers of tears in their eyes and sorrow in their hearts because they found the once stalwart warrior of baldom, the tremendously aggressive and sturdy creator of the American league a broken man.

They came to back him into a corner and take the fight out of him "for the good of baseball". But only an hour in the company of the leader of their league convinced them that a tremendously tragic physical change had come in him even in the month that has elapsed since the inter-league meeting of December.

Leave of Absence.

And so they voted to give him a leave of absence, based upon their convictions backed up by the statement of Johnson's personal physician, they sheared him, while on such "leave of absence" of power to act in league affairs and named Frank J. Navin, owner of the Tigers, to act as president during his absence.

If Johnson recovers, the old job again is his—perhaps. But the likelihood of recovery is most remote. His personal physician holds out but little hope. There are many persons who feel he will not live through the year. For he is suffering from diabetes.

The club owners of the American league arrived here Sunday and went into a morning meeting with Johnson.

They wanted to get away by themselves and discuss immediate ways and means. So they quickly adjourned, whereupon Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees and a member of the board, sought out Landis. He explained to Landis the physical condition of Johnson. He asked Landis to meet in the evening with the American league club owners. Then Ruppert sent a call to Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, and enemy of Johnson's, asking him to appear at the special meeting.

The American league owners, Landis, Henry J. Killilea, the personal attorney of Johnson; William Harridge, secretary to Johnson, and Dr. Robert B. Drury, physician for Johnson, met in the Blackstone hotel. Johnson was invited to attend—but he declined.

And then, at that session, after Dr. Drury had told of his diagnosis of Johnson's condition, and Harridge had been questioned, the American leaguers quickly resolved that the only possible move to make was to grant Johnson an indefinite leave of absence as the only possible chance for him to regain his health.

"No action was taken on the Cobb and Speaker case—that is, as regards their status. But I will do something on that very soon."

Johnson secreted himself immediately after the morning meeting and efforts to reach him for a statement were not successful. Just how he will accept the action of his league is something of a guess.

And so Johnson passes, out of power in the league that he created and lifted from nothingness to greatness, the so-called "stormy petrel" of baseball is relegated to the status of a very sick man—and Landis is in full and complete and unchallenged control of the affairs of baseball.

George Young's achievement in winning the Catalina swim is another demonstration of the fact that the sturdy plodder is usually victorious over the flashy speed boys in such contests of endurance.

Gladys Robinson Skates Half Mile In 1:31 4-5 At Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Miss Gladys Robinson of Toronto, Ontario, in an exhibition here at the Portage Park Skating Club, established what is said to be a new world's record for the half mile on skates, with a time of 1:31 4-5, five seconds faster than the previous mark. She was unpaced on the eightlap track.

Seven Teams In O. & P. League

Each Team Will Carry Four Youngsters On Club.

CANTON, O., Jan. 24—Managers of teams in the Ohio and Pennsylvania Baseball League in session here Sunday started legislation for the third season after inducting William Strang, Canton newspaper man, as president. The league is to operate on a seven-club basis, the General Tire team of Akron being dropped from the circuit, after application had been made for only an associate membership.

Plans for entrance into organized baseball also were unfolded, negotiations being in progress with Judge Landis and Mike Sexton, minor league mogul. It was decided that each team have under contract at least four players who never have figured in professional games. The uniform players contract of the minor leagues was adopted.

The next meeting is to be held within the month at Youngstown when reports from the rules and schedule committees will be received. Schedule makers will frame a map of plays for 60 games, each team playing its rivals five times during each half. The league will start about May 1. Cities represented were Erie, New Castle, Youngstown, Beaver Falls, Massillion, Canton and Cleveland.

Sharon Girls Defeat Locals

New Castle Maidens Lose To Former World's Champions 19 To 16

The Sharon High girls team former world's champions defeated the New Castle High girls 19 to 16, in their game Saturday night at the High School gym.

The visitors were too strong for the locals in their offensive attack. The game was one of the most thrilling played by the girls to date and kept a fairly large crowd of spectators interested in all quarters of the game.

The Sharon girls led at half time by a score of 10 to 9. The score was deadlocked many many times during the third and fourth quarters, but the visitors by a last minute spurt managed to score three points advantage.

The playing of Miss Anna Ponion former Ben Franklin High star was one of the outsanding features of the game. The local forward caged the ball four times and played a strong game at all times. Miss Plattner and Miss Wygonowski also played well for the locals.

For the Sharon team the work of Miss Shook and Miss Speizer featured.

Westminster Wallops Bethany Team On Saturday Night 46-26

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 24.—Continuing their great work of the present season, Westminster's fast stepping basketball team defeated the Bethany college team in the local gym in a good game on Saturday night, 46-26.

Westminster took the lead early in the game and demonstrated throughout that victory was not to be denied.

The defeat was one of the worst that the Bethany team has ever experienced in its clashes with the Blue and white, but even in the defeat the visitors shared honors of the evening, putting up a game battle, but being unable to effectively cope with the brand of ball that Westminster presented.

Conners, Westminster forward, who was playing a whirwind game was disqualified with more than minutes of the game to play, due to an infraction of the rules, or the score might have been even greater.

The immense crowd that packed the college gym was treated to one of the best chances to enthuse over a Westminster varsity team of many months, and enthuse they did.

Beckwith of Bethany rang up the first counter of the game, but that was the last time that Bethany was in the lead, try as they might to overcome the lead of the blue and white. At half time the count showed, Westminster 18, Bethany 6.

At the start of the second half, Westminster for a time had the visitors dazzled, and bewildered. The score at one point reached a total of 39-10. Bethany, even though outdistanced did not quit. With the odds against them they rallied and put up their best exhibition of the evening, and ran their score up to 21, before Westminster again increased their total. Carl Hammill, center, proved the key man in this rally. From then on Westminster maintained their lead to the end of the game at about the same proportion.

Just who Westminster's chief star was has not even yet been determined. Lewis, guard, cannot be overlooked since he contributed to the extent of seven field goals and two fouls in addition to a strong defensive game.

And then there was Crowell and Conners who contributed a quintet of fielders apiece, the ever-steady play of Gamble at center and the mammoth defense of Guard Ayres. McCullough and McQuiston, last minute reserves, held their own while in the game. Beckwith was Bethany's ace.

The lineup:

Westminster.		Bethany.
Conners	f	Beckwith
Crowell	f	Markley
Gamble	c	Hammill
Ayres	g	Seigel
Lewis	g	T. Hammill

Subs;—Bethany Carey, T. Hammill; Baker, Beckwith; Herman, Markley; Markley, Herman; Beckwith, Baker. Westminster McCullough, Conners; McQuiston, Ayres.

Field Goals;—Conners 5, Crowell 5, Gamble 3, Lewis 7, McCullough, Beckwith 4, C. Hammill 3, Seigel 3, Carey.

Foul Goals;—Westminster 4-7. Bethany 4-11.

Overlands Defeat Merchants 37 To 12

Overlands Cinch Second Place In League By Victory Saturday.

First Half Of Industrial League Schedule Ends Tonight, Tin Mill Leads.

The Rick-Overlands by their 37 to 12 victory over the East Side Merchants Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A. cinched second place in the league standing. The league season for the first half closes with the games scheduled for tonight.

In the preliminary game Saturday the Musketeers downed the Shamrocks by a score of 41 to 18. The Musketeers are leading the boys' league at the Y. M. C. A. and are regarded as one of the best junior outfits in the city. The Shamrocks were no match for the clever work presented by Hill, W. Woods and Kroen. At half time the Musketeers had a lead of 20 to 9. The entire last half was a repetition of the first two periods with the Musketeers ringing them in from all angles.

Overlands Win.

The Overlands defeated the Merchants for the second time this year by a score of 37 to 12. The Merchants were regarded as likely winners but the pace set by the Overlands was too fast.

The Merchants lost the service of Henry McNicholas, their star forward, early in the game and the team went to pieces. McNicholas in jumping for the ball was hurled against a wall and knocked unconscious for several minutes.

The Overlands led at half time by a score of 20 to 3. The game was a walk-away in the third and fourth quarters with the morale of the Merchants team ebbing after McNicholas was forced to quit the game.

Nocera, Kirker and VanFossan were the stars for the Overlands. For the Merchants the playing of McLure and Genkinger featured.

Season Half Over.

The first half of the industrial league season will end tonight. Two fast games are on tap for the closing of the first half of the schedule. The undefeated Tin Mill team will play the Pennsy Railroad team and the P. & O. boys will clash with the East Side Merchants.

The first game tonight will start at 8 o'clock. The Tin Mill quintet looks good to finish the first half of the season undefeated. The Tin Mill boys have hit a fast stride and it is going to take a mighty fine team to upset them. The Pennsy tossers may spring the unexpected tonight and in event they do trim the Tin Mill a deadlock for the first half will exist between the Tin Mill and Overlands. The Overlands have been defeated once in seven starts while the Tin Mill is unbeaten.

The East Side Merchants are favored to defeat the Electrics in the second game of the menu tonight.

Senior B Girls Defeat Sophomores

The Senior B girls of the Senior High school handed the Sophomore B. girls a sound beating in a free scoring game by a 36 to 15 score. This is the highest total of points that has been scored by a class team so far this season and it speaks well for the offense of the Senior lassies.

The Seniors took the lead at the out set and held it by a good margin throughout the game. The Sophomores fought hard but were unable to over come the handicap of height and experience which the Seniors held over them.

The guarding of Cowmeadow and the offensive work of Myers was the bright spot in the team of the losers while Smith, Needler, and Frye played well for the winners.

Lineup and summary:

Seniors B 36.		Sophomore B 15.

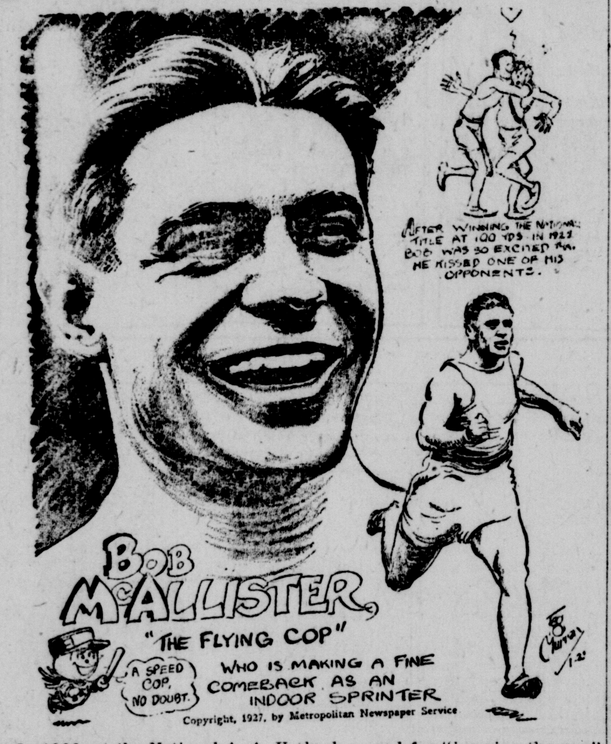
Many of the greatest runners have been poor performers on small indoor tracks because they could not take the sharp corners.

He Cops Prizes — By Feg Murray



In 1922, at the National A. A. U. track and field championships in Newark, N. J., the 100-yard dash was won in ten seconds by one "Robert McAllister, unattached, New York." McAllister, known then as the indoor sprinter while a member of the New York City police force, had not been given much consideration as a possible winner of a national outdoor championship due mainly to the fact that such men as Al Leconey, Bill Hayes and Loren Murchison were entered. However, the sturdy cop beat them all with a fine, powerful finish, and then, completely overcome with joy and excitement because of his victory, he seized one of his opponents and gave him a resounding kiss.

The same Bob McAllister nearly four and a half years later made a sensational comeback on the boards of the Twenty-third Regiment armory in Brooklyn on January 8 in the first indoor meet of the season. Running without spikes, he won two heats of a handicap 100-yard dash in 10 1-5 seconds, and then was barely nosed out in the final in the same time, after being set back a yard for "jumping the gun" and then fighting his way around several sprinters who had crowded over into his lane.

This comeback of the former national champion, who had been off the track for at least two years, was most surprising, and gave promise of even more sensational performances to come. Bob, by the way, is under the expert care of Jake Weber, coach at Fordham university and trainer of champions since time immemorial.

It will be remembered that in his first indoor season of racing, the "Flying Cop" established four world's records within four months after he ran his first race. His appearance on the board this winter will add a lot to what promises to be a mediocre season.

Feg Murray Says—

Bed-time story: A rule has been passed that fencers could not write up the tournaments in which they competed. But Cy Slitgizzard, A. A. U. champion, dipped his blade in ink and spelled out his story on his opponent's chest protector, thus foiling the authorities.

Christians Top First Baptists

Christians Present Fine Team; Defeat Baptists 30 To 20

The Central Christians defeated the First Baptist team in the New Castle Church League on Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A. by a score of 30 to 20.

The Christians were too strong for the Baptists in all departments of the game. The score at half time favored the Christians 19 to 9. The Baptists came back strong in the third and fourth quarters, but their rally was not sufficient to overcome the lead piled up by the Christians in the first two periods.

H. Orr and Whaley were the big guns for the Baptists, while Nolan, Smith and E. Bauman were the leading scorers for the winners.

The lineup and summary:

Baptists 20		Christians 30
Gibson	F	E. Bauman
R. Orr	F	A. Thomas
H. Orr	C	Nolan
Whaley	G	Harris
Johnston	G	Smith

Subs—A. Bauman, McCullough, M. Thomas.

Sportsmen Open Battle On Bill

Array Themselves Against Bill Seeking Abolition Of Special Funds.

By G. ROSS DOWNING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 24.—Local organizations of sportsmen as well as those of state-wide membership, with headquarters here, today launched into a fight to force amendment or defeat of the bill introduced in the senate by William C. Freeman of Lebanon county providing for the abolition of the 15 special funds now carried in the state treasury. Under the Freeman bill all of the specified funds would be transferred to the general fund of the state.

Included in the proposed bill are both the fish and game funds. At other sessions of the legislature similar bills have been defeated largely through the efforts of sportsmen who believe the money they pay for a specific purpose should not become confused with any other or perhaps through the general fund to buying furniture in another department.

Under the present system all money derived from the sale of fish and game licenses is used in the operation of the respective departments and for the protection and propagation of game and fish.

At the beginning of the present year the game fund had a balance of $530,434 and the fish account stood at $216,741.

Other special funds which the Freeman bill would abolish are as follows: Sinking, state road bond sinking, motor license, workmen's compensation insurance, federal vocational education, industrial rehabilitation, agricultural land script, State college experimental farm, school emlpoyes retirement, banking department, federal money held temporarily by the state and insurance of state buildings.

At the present time there are 34 special funds carried in the state treasury in addition to the general fund. Under the acts creating these special funds they may be used only for the purpose specifically set forth. In the general fund there are some forms of state expenses which always come first and in case of a shortage of money other dependent departments or branches of government may be cut down on finances.

Ben Franklin Is An Easy Winner

Mahoningtown Junior High School fell an easy victim to Coach Norton's well coached Ben Franklin tossers on the Ben Franklin floor by a 42-4 count. Ben Franklin played exceptionally well on the defense and held their opponents to a single field goal. Ben Franklin gained an early lead and the first half ended 26 to 2 and from that time on were never in danger for the remaining two periods. Norton's passers also showed to great advantage their ability on the offense as well as the defense. Coach Norton injected many subs into the game and they also had little difficulty in caging the ball. Stewart, the giant center for the Franklinites caged nine buckets during the fracas. Ciccone played well on the defense, while Bender starred for the seventh ward passers.

The lineup:

Ben Franklin		Mahoningtown
Johns	F	Brumbaugh
Kenst	F	Russo
Stewart	C	Bender
Shook	G	Hilliard
Ciccone	G	Sweener

Subs: Franklin—McLaughlin, Ruha, Hannon, Beres, Kominic, Grannis, Kenst. Mahoningtown—Richael, Majock, McSemaine, Manfire, Holliday, Rice.

Goals—Stewart 9, Johns 3, Ciccone 3, Kenst 2, Gennock, Beres, Shook, Bender.

Fouls—Franklin 2-4. Mahoningtown 2-4.

Rickard Announces Rank Of Fighters

Three Men Eligible For Heavyweight Ranking, Tunney, Dempsey, Sharkey.

Delaney And Berlenbach Head Light Heavyweight Division.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Jack Delaney, the one-shot man, is not a front rank heavyweight contender. Neither is Jim Maloney. Nor do Joe Anderson, of Cincinnati, and Leo Lomski, Portland, Ore., rate higher than the third group of middleweights while Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., merely is a bantamweight of the second group.

These observations are not mine. They are the very exclusive property of Tex Rickard and constitute some of the Cardinal surprises in his annual ranking of boxers, made public today through the courtesy of the ring.

It might even be suspected that they were drafted before Mr. Rickard got around to arranging his February schedule of matches, for one of these couples the names of Delaney and Maloney in an attraction for which he has connived to obtain a dispensation allowing him to charge $20 for ringside seats. Another match, earlier in the month, calls for Graham to meet Charley Phil Rosenberg and here, supposedly, the world's bantamweight championship will be the stake. It doesn't look as though Mr. Rickard has been thinking with his customary clarity.

The rankings, he said, were based not on 1926 performances but on 1927 "potentialities," which makes his box office angle all the more incomprehensible.

Tunney Leads

Taking him at his word, however, we are to judge that, if the heavyweight title were to be decided tomorrow, only three men would be eligible—Gene Tunney, present champion; Jack Dempsey, ex-champion, and Jack Sharkey, conqueror of Harry Wills. Delaney heads the second group with Maloney, the other principal on Rickard's twenty-dollar show, bringing up the rear behind Paul Berlenbach and Paolino.

Young Stribling, Monte Munn and Jack Renault are placed in the third group, with Harry Persson and Knute Hanson ignored.

Delaney and Berlenbach run "one-two" respectively among the light heavyweights, as expected, with Tommy Loughran in third place and, in the middleweight division, the former champion, Tiger Flowers, is placed at the top over Mickey Walker, the man who gained a disputed decision over the Tiger in Chicago. Pete Latzo, the welterweight champion, runs third in the first group of middleweights over K. O. Phil Kaplan, Maxey Rosenbloom and Dave Shade, who form the second group. Rickard neglects to explain just why men like Lomski and Anderson are only third string potentialities for 1927.

Latzo, of course, heads the welterweights, with Joe Dundee and Eddie Roberts rated in the first group. The first three in the lightweight division are Sammy Mandell, champion, and Sid Terris and Billy Wallace, leading contenders. However, Phil McGraw should place higher than the third group in this division.

Morgan Stands Out

The junior lightweight and featherweight ratings seem to be above criticism with Tod Morgan, Jack Bernstein and Babe Herman ranked one-two-three in the former and Benny Bass, Honeyboy Finnegan and Red Chapman receiving the same classification in the latter.

Tony Canzoneri probably got the "nod" over Graham for the first three in the bantamweight class because of his recent decision over Bushy. But if the latter really is to figure in a title match within a matter of weeks isn't he the stronger potentiality? He is.

As a matter of fact, so many restrictions have been placed on Rosenberg that Graham will have at least three chances at the title. He can win it on sheer ability; he can win it if Rosenberg comes in at a weight that proves ruinous, which is more than possible; and he can take his chances with the rest of the field if Rosenberg elects to abandon his title by failing to make 118 pounds. The abandonment will be outomatic, according to the edict of the New York commission.

As for the flyweights, the name of Elky Clark, European champion, would not be included in the first group had it been drafted today. The inclusion, however, of Fidel La Barba, Frankie Genaro and Newsboy Brown is pool-proof. They are the class of the division.

COLLEGE HEAD REFUTES ATTACK ON PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 24. — The attack of Wynant D. Kennedy, chairman of the Princeton Board of Athletic Control, announced in an official statement tonight. Hubbard charged Princeton with "dirty football" in an article in a current issue of a weekly magazine.

Reserves Win From High Five At Westminster

College Reserves Complete Game With Only Four Players On Team

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 24.—A four-man act was staged by the Westminster College Reserves Saturday evening when they pitted themselves against the New Wilmington high school team here. When Stewart, center, was disqualified because of the personal foul rule in the second quarter, the Reserves had only four men remaining but despite the handicap managed to win out 25-19.

It was by means of an early lead that the Reserves attained victory. In the first few minutes the high school offered a weak resistance, the college passers leading 12-3 at the termination of the quarter. It was in the second stanza that Stewart went out. Coach Lawther had but five men in uniform so the "Four Horsemen" remained to fight it out. They held the safe lead of 21-6 at the half.

In the third quarter the scholastic passers began to creep up. When this period had ended the Reserves' had dwindled to 23-13. In the final quarter Coach Wiggins' lads staged a fast rally but were unable to accomplish their purpose.

Brown led the Reserves in counting with four two-plyers while Davis of the high school had the same number.

The lineups:

Reserves 25		High School 19
Brown	F	Patterson
Lewis	F	Davis
Stewart	C	Hutchison
Phillips	G	P. James

Polish Falcons Defeat Hubbard

The Polish Falcons won their eighth straight game on last Friday night at the Falcon hall when they downed the Circle club of Hubbard, O., by a score of 42 to 9.

The Hubbard outfit played their best game in the first quarter of the battle when they had a lead of 8 to 7. The Falcons hit their stride in the second session and led at half time by a score of 17 to 8. The visitors failed to tally in the entire stanza.

The Falcons scored almost at will in the third and fourth quarters while the Ohio tossers were held to a lone point for the two full periods.

A. Mehalic led the scoring for the Falcons with seven field goals while Cegielka and J. Mehalic had four and three respectively. For Hubbard the work of Pucak and Hettrick was the best. Burke and Zuhowski played a strong guarding game for the locals.

The lineup and summary:

Orioles Seek Tyrus Cobb

International League Club Offers $25,000 Year Salary.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 24.—Ty Cobb former manager of the Detroit American league club has been offered a cntract calling for a salary of $25,000 a year to play with the Baltimore club of the International league. The offer was telegraphed by Jack Dunn president of the Orioles to Cobb at the Congress hotel, Chicago.

The contract would cover the 1927 season.

Dunn said he made the offer on the understanding that President Ban Johnson of the American league and declared Cobb ineligible only as a manager because of incompetence. He has had no word from anyone connected with baseball that Ty was ineligible as a player Dunn said.

"My offer is the most genuine that anyone could imagine" said the Oriole chief. "I am convinced that Cobb would be worth that much money as a player on the Baltimore club. He would be a great drawing card and signing him would be a good business transaction."

Junior A Team Given Setback In Class League

The Junior A team in the interclass league was handed its second setback of the season in a game played recently at the senior high gym, the defeat coming from the hands of the Senior Alphas. The final score was 13 to 9. This was the first win of the season for the Senior team as it met defeat in its first game against the Senior Omegas.

There was very little scoring during the first half as neither team could locate the basket with any degree of accuracy. The Seniors were leading at the end of the first period by a few points.

During the last half it was nip and tuck with the score tied the greater part of the time. DiThomas sewed up the victory for the Seniors in the last minute of play by dropping through two fouls and a field goal.

HALL of FAME

By Norman E. Brown.

Nominating

GEORGE M. LOTT, JR.

Because he is one of the "rising generation" in the tennis world.

Because he has just won the distinction of being ranked No. 1 in the Western rating by the ranking committee.

Because he has already held the Canadian singles and doubles titles.

Because he was placed ninth in the national rankings two years ago when but seventeen.

And because he carries "western" tennis wherever he goes. This is noticeable in his grip and service.

And results—the western cheer leaders will tell you.

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

If the big league magnates have their doorsteps cleaned and their long distance arguments settled and all the dirty sox of scandal hung out to dry, by that time they will send the vanguard of their ball clubs south in something like five weeks from today.

And the average fan says: "Speed the day." Either because he still has some love for the real baseball left in his system or is crying for anything that will end the mudslinging and backbiting now going on among the baseball heads.

And when the time comes for the early birds to flit southward 11 of the major league clubs will head their hirelings for Florida.

This is interesting in view of developments in that sunny land since the last springtime workouts of the players.

First Florida was hit by a "high powered business" bomb which shook the entire country with its noise and shattered completely the seven heaven in which the get-rich-quick boys were living there.

Real estate, which had been making millionaires over night went blooey. That isn't the correct technical term but gives a clear idea of how it went.

Then came another blow—a tornado which swept the eastern coast, startled the middle section—and cracked its tail on the west coast enough to blow down trees, cave in windows, tear off some trellis work and ruin the wash on the line.

"Florida's done," said almost everybody—especially those who had never been there.

But 11 big league baseball clubs are going to train there this season—the same number that gamboled about under the sun last season—although the list has been changed a bit.

Five of the 16 clubs of the American Association and International League, two of the three big minor league outfits, will unlimber there.

The 11 big league teams and the places selected for training camps in Florida are:

St. Louis Cardinals at Avon Park.

New York Giants at Sarasota.

Cinci Reds at Orlando.

Boston Braves at St. Petersburg.

Brooklyn Dodgers at Clearwater.

Philadelphia at Bradenton.

Cleveland Indians at Lakeland.

New York Yankees at St. Petersburg.

Philadelphia Athletics at Ft. Myers.

Washington at Tampa.

St. Louis Browns at Tarpon Springs.

That leaves five major outfits training outside that state. The Pirates will return to Paso Robles, Calif., and the Cubs to Catalina Island. The Detroit Tigers go to San Antonio, Tex., the Chicago White Sox to Shreveport, La., and the Boston Red Sox to New Orleans, La.

The Indianapolis Hoosiers of the A. A. will work out at Sanford, at Plant City.

Buffalo of the International League trains at Palmetto, across the river from Bradenton. Baltimore's Orioles will tune up at Auburndale and Newark at Pensacola.

Which means that baseball men who tried out Florida found there was something there beneficial to their players besides purchases in real estate.

And the action of the diamond moguls in sending their clubs back to the Peninsula state may be a contributing factor in helping Florida hit a permanent, sound basis of realism.

I Was Thinking, the Other Day, About—

Negotiating To Settle Strike

Have Conference This Morning Over Hotel Dispute—Second Conference This Afternoon

Efforts to adjust the strike which has hampered operations at The Castleton for the past ten days, at eleven o'clock this morning at the office of the H. J. Conrath company at the building, proved of no avail and the matter was to be considered further at a meeting scheduled for two o'clock this afternoon, when international representatives of the iron workers and hoisting engineers, will be present.

Those participating in the conference were T. E. Morehead, of the building committee, Marcus J. Kintz, superintendent in charge for the Conrath company, general contractors, H. L. Marvin, electrical contractor, E. A. Erb, business agent of the electrical workers, T. J. McMichael, business agent of the Building Trades Council and others.

T. F. Morehead on behalf of the building committee stated that the general, heating and plumbing contracts were all separate and that the contractors in each line of work had no connection or supervision over the other. He also stated that the committee was conducting the building operations in trust for some 800 stockholders and that it had been understood that it was to be a union job. He said that it was a public affair and that the public was interested in seeing that it was completed in the proper manner and not held up. He objected to individuals, such as the representative of the ironworkers from Youngstown, O., whom he said was a "foreigner" as far as this community was concerned, in coming in here and stopping work in another state.

The proposition was put up to T. J. McMichael that the electricians be permitted to resume work at noon, pending the elimination of all non-union workmen on the job and the agreement to live up to the building trades regulations in the future but he declined unless the non-union men were discharged forthwith and replaced when possible by union workmen. When an agreement could not be reached, McMichael left stating that they could meet at the Trades and Labor Assembly hall this afternoon with the international officers coming to the city. He refused to call off the strike unless all non-union men were discharged at once, regardless of the effect on the work. This condition was not agreeable to the contractors effected. The electricians may return to work pending the discharge of the non-union workmen.

It was brought out at the meeting that the strike in the first place was called without following the requirements of the various international unions, which require an effort at arbitration and when the notification of the international officers, before going out on a sympathetic strike.

Fire Threatens Park Theatre In Youngstown

Fourteen Firemen Are Overcome By Smoke And Fumes At Y. M. C. A. Blaze

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 24. — Fourteen firemen were overcome by smoke and fumes while fighting a fire in the basement of the Y. M. C. A. here early Sunday evening. Three are still in the hospital suffering serious effects.

Called to the sub-cellar of the Y. M. C. A. building when paper in a baling room caught fire, the firemen were trapped by the noxious fumes, which filled the cellar passageway.

With the fire fighting force of the city badly crippled by the blaze Sunday evening, the firemen were called to the Leedy building and Park Theatre, early this morning to fight a stubborn smouldering fire that originated in the Leedy building on the third floor occupied by the Builders' Exchange.

The damage to the Leedy building and also to the Park Theatre was slight and consisted chiefly of water. It was necessary to pour many volumes of water on the smouldering paper files in the office occupied by the Exchange.

Traffic here early today was tied up for about an hour by the many lines of fire hose.

New Legislation On City Bonding Issues Is Planned

City Solicitor Robert White today informed council that the department of internal affairs, Pennsylvania, is considering legislation whereby the state will govern the issuance of bonds by municipalities.

He said to council today that some cities which have no sinking funds issue bonds and in order to retire them must pass another bond issue.

White said New Castle has and is still in splendid shape concerning bond issues on account of its sinking fund.

His information followed council's favorable action on an ordinance presented today which provides for the borowing of $100,000 through a bond issue method to pay for proposed improvements.

About This Time of Year

Just about this time of year when the first winter thaw comes and the ground hog begins to get itchy in his hole in the ground and wants to take a peep at the great outdoors again, there's a feeling comes over those who are chicken fanciers—and we mean those who fancy the feathered variety of blooded poultry. And we don't blame them a bit. Who doesn't fancy a nice fat hen, especially when it is the centerpiece of a dining room table or the producer of fine, large and ripe eggs.

Now the reason for this is that those people who sell day old chicks or eggs for hatching are getting ready for business. The best way to do business of this kind is not to keep the fact that you are selling day old chicks or taking orders for hatching eggs a secret, but tell the world about it.

The best way to tell the world about it—especially that part of the world which buys the 17,000 daily copies of The New Castle News is to put an ad in the News Want Columns. Placed under "Pet Stock and Poultry" heading all the world will know about it.

Advertise your chickens and eggs now and your spring business will be good.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

The "Merrimac" and the "Monitor"—Part One.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

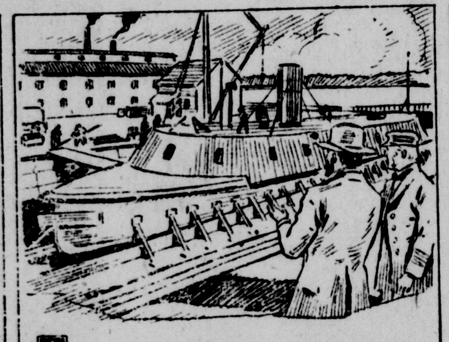
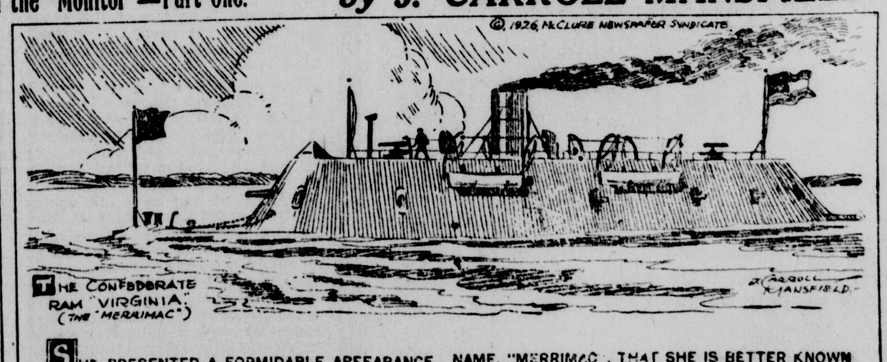
WHEN THE STATE OF VIRGINIA SECEDED FROM THE UNION AND JOINED THE CONFEDERACY, THE FEDERALS ABANDONED THE GREAT GOSPORT NAVY YARD NEAR NORFOLK. BEFORE THEIR DEPARTURE, THEY SET FIRE TO THE BUILDINGS AND BURNED AND SCUTTLED A NUMPER OF NAVAL VESSELS THAT COULD NOT BE REMOVED IN TIME (APRIL 20, 1861).



AFTER THE CONFEDERATES HAD TAKEN POSSESSION OF THE NAVY YARD THEY FOUND THAT THE "MERRIMAC", A FINE STEAM FRIGATE, HAD BEEN ONLY PARTIALLY DESTROYED. SHE WAS RAISED, PLACED IN DRYDOCK AND WORK WAS BEGUN TO TRANSFORM HER INTO A POWERFUL IRONCLAD RAM FROM DESIGNS OF CONFEDERATE NAVAL EXPERTS.



SHE PRESENTED A FORMIDABLE APPEARANCE WHEN COMPLETED. HER SLOPING IRON SIDES WERE INVULNERABLE TO CANNON FIRE AND HER HEAVY RIFLED GUNS AND IRON PRON FOR RAMMING MADE HER A DANGEROUS FIGHTING MACHINE. THE CONFEDERATES RENAMED HER THE "VIRGINIA", BUT IT IS BY HER ORIGINAL NAME, "MERRIMAC", THAT SHE IS BETTER KNOWN IN HISTORY. THE DESIGNERS OF THE RAM HAD MUCH FAITH IN HER FIGHTING ABILITY, BUT MANY SOUTHERNERS RIDICULED HER CONSTRUCTION AND SOME OF THE CONFEDERATE NEWSPAPERS PROPHESIED SHE WOULD BE A "PERFECT FAILURE."

Plan New Bond Issue For City

Councilmen Prepare To Have Garbage Furnace Rebuilt With Part Of Fund.

OTHER PROJECTS TO BE INCLUDED

Councilman Louis Genkinger today introduced an ordinance, ordered prepared by colleagues which will increase the bonded indebtedness of the city $100,000.

The $100,000 will be used to pay for remodelling of the garbage furnace, a new fire department service truck and improvement of streets and new sewers.

According to Councilman Davies the present incinerating plant will be remodelled at a cost of $45,000 and the truck will cost about $15,000.

The present garbage plant has two furnaces. He says it costs $5,000 for coal to burn the refuse. The proposed plant will obtain fuel from the garbage.

Council stated that the $40,000 balance will be used to improve certain thoroughfares and construct new sewers when a survey of sewer conditions is completed here.

The ordinance was sent to committee, will be printed, advertised and the issue sold after the bill is enacted into city law.

The measure provides that serial bonds in coupon form, $1,000 denomination, be issued.

The first bond will be retired in five years and the issued will all have been retired at the expiration of 20 years.

The money to be borrowed will cost the city 4½ per cent interest.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Speculative interest was concentrated on the speculative railroad stocks in the early trading today. Furious bidding for the common stock of Wheeling & Lake Erie caused an 8¼ point jump in that stock to 56¼ in the first half-hour, while Western Maryland, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Pere Marquette and other railroad stocks either closely or remotely connected with the current merger rumors rose buoyantly in active trading.

A lively fight for control of the road by the Van Sweringens of Cleveland, the Delaware-Ohio and New York Central interests, is Wall Street's explanation for the unusual interest in the stock at a price more than double that of the first week in January.

A $27,390,000 gain in the reserve surplus of the New York clearing house banks; arrival of a shipment of $4,000,000 gold bullion from France and the 4 per cent-call loan renewal rate were evidences of increasing strength in the money market. An easier price tendency in the steel trade and unsettlement in the motor trade accounted for the slightly reactionary tone in the industrial stocks.

Consolidated Gas was compelled to absorb heavy selling, declining more than 2 points to 103, on announcement of the plan to issue $146,500,000 in new common and preference preferred stock. Oil stocks were fairly steady, and copper stocks firm.

Jury Discharged Sunday Morning; Out All Night

Unable To Reach An Agreement In Case Of Haug Against Karadis And Frank

After spending all night in the jury room and being unable to agree, the jury in the case of L. A. Haug against George Karadis and Ellis Frank, was discharged by Judge Hildebrand after he had been summoned to the court house Sunday morning shortly after 8 o'clock.

When the judge arrived he was told that the jury, which had gone out shortly before noon on Saturday, was hopelessly deadlocked and that there did not appear to be any chance of arriving at an agreement.

The case was one in which suit was brought for repairs made on the Richardson building at the corner of West Washington and Beaver streets. The amount was about $1400.

The suit was brought against the two men as partners and against Karadis as an individual. The stumbling block appeared to be as to whether or not there was a partnership. According to unofficial reports the jury stood nine for the plaintiff and three for defendant.

Buildings of 110 stories seem reasonable to an outsider, unless the aim is to get out of machine gun range.

Request Perry Highway Be Made Primary Board

Lawrence, Butler And Mercer Counties Join In Move For Big Improvement

Petitions requesting that the Perry highway, Route 246 located betwen Pittsburgh and New Castle and running through the western end of Butler county be made a primary highway at the entire expense of the state have been sent to Gov. Fisher by the commissioners of Butler, Lawrence and Mercer counties.

This route is paved from Pittsburgh to the county line of Butler and Allegheny counties bringing it near Zelienople from here to Meadville it is unfinished. The following places are ones through which this route will pass when finished: Pittsburgh, Keown, Wexford, Ogle, Zelienople, Pleasanthill, Portersville, Grant City, Harlansburg, Leesburg, Milburn, Mercer Fairview Sheakleyville, Custards West Union, Kerrtown and Meadville. From Meadville it is paved through Cambridge to Erie folowing Route 5.

In the petition sent from the board of governors of the New Castle Motor club the following points were given.

The highway when improved from the Allegheny county line north will form a comparatively level arterial highway for direct through travel to Zelienople, Harlansburg, Mercer and Meadville which will reduce by 18 miles the present shortest distance to Pittsburgh from New Castle. When improved the highway will furnish excellent facilities for quick transportation which will develop business and shipping relations in the principal towns referred to because the distance to these towns will be shorter and more direct; Western Pensylvania pays an unusually large proportion of the local taxation of the state and in order that it can keep pace with the demands it should have every facility for the development and growth which results from good roads. As part of the primary system of the State of Pennsylvania the work should be paid for entirely by the state out of the last fifty million dollar bond issue. The improvement work should start at once and be completed at the earliest possible time and that the board of governors of New Castle will co-operate with the highway department with the view of bringing about these improvements.

A Florida man recently bailed out a friend because the friend helped him bail out his lot.

Move to Clear "Deserters"

In an attempt to clear the names of Southern soldiers whose names appear in the War Department files on unsigned documents as deserters from the Confederate Army, Senator Claude Swanson and Representative R. W. Moore, both of Virginia, are introducing a bill directing the Secretary of War to hear evidence in the cases. Senator Swanson on the left.

Power Of The Cross Emphasized By Pastor

Rev. Scripture Delivers Forceful Message In Gospel Tabernacle

The revival services are continuing with good interest at the Hoover Heights Tabernacle of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, Morris street. In spite of the inclement weather there were good audiences yesterday. There was an unusual amount of interest among the children to see the pastor put a child through a small piece of paper. But this was done to the satisfaction of all at the morning service.

Rev. Scripture spoke on "The Power of the Cross" in the morning. He emphasized the work of Christ in obtaining salvation for all men and illustrated how the proclaiming of this Gospel drew men of all nations to Christ both in the days of the early church and the present days. He urged all to lift up Christ in various ways that people of this community might be drawn to him.

At the evening service Mr. Scripture gave a very strong and earnest appeal for his hearers to accept Christ as their savior, basing his remarks on Gen. 6:3, "My Spirit shall not always strive with men." and 1 Cor. 10:21, "Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of Devils; ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and the table of devils." His theme was "Cups of Iniquity."

Crime News Is Given Little Newspaper Space

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 24.—People who find fault with the daily press on the grounds that it prints too much crime news should be pitied in the opinion of Professor R. X. Graham, instructor in English at Westminster College. With the end of the first semester, statistics have been compiled from data collected by members of the Westminster class in journalism which show that only two per cent of the total space of the average paper is concerned with crime news.

Each student in the journalism course measured six consecutive issues of a representative newspaper, computing averages for the various kinds of printed matter. These averages, based on actual measurements of 15 journals from different parts of the country, were then compared and the average percentage easily arrived at.

Consecutive issues, chosen at random from files in the Westminster journalism laboratory, of the Scranton Republican, Pittsburgh Gazette Times, New Castle News, Youngstown Vindicator, Syracuse Post Standard, Boston Evening Transcript, Atlanta Constitution, Kansas City Times, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Christian Science Monitor, Milwaukee Journal, New Orleans Times Picayune, Philadelphia Public Ledger, Cleveland Plain Dealer, and New York Times were used in this unique analysis.

The percentage of total space occupied by the various kinds of printed matter follow: Display advertisements, 41; general news, 12; classified advertisements, 10; various newspaper features, 8; business news, including stock market reports, 7; sporting news, including photographs illustrating sports, 7; photographs, illustrating the news of the day, 3; comic strips, 3; crime and scandal news, 2; editorials, 2; society news, 2; political and government news, 2; and police court news, separate from crime and scandal, 1.

Cleveland's New Station Will Be Tallest In World

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 24.—Cleveland's Union Station, which will be the tallest institution of its kind in the world, is to be completed next year, according to an announcement by the Van Sweringen interests here.

The huge building, which will cost in excess of $60,000,000 and which will have a tower 708 feet above the street level, already has risen to the tenth floor.

The structure itself covers 31 acres. In many respects it will resemble the Grand Central Station of New York. The latter, however, is a terminal depot while the Van Sweringens' project will be a "through" station for several lines.

The station and all equipment entering it is to be electrified, necessitating use of motored engines at outside transfer points for some railroads.

The tower of the new station will face Cleveland's Public Square. Between the thirtieth and thirty-third floors it will be pierced by a series of arches, thus enhancing its beauty.

Making Plans For Wrestling Matches

Walter Kirker, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. is working on the plans for the wrestling meet to be held here March 26. He has obtained many good instructors for those who are getting in shape for the meet, among them are, Herbert Kirk, well known Penn State wrestler, who will be the main coach for New Castle wrestlers, assisted by Robert Meermans, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Jack Humes, and Joe Weinschenk, well known State wrestler who Kirker hopes to have wrestle for New Castle.

Every Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 8:30 to 9:30, bouts will be held in the Y gym, at which time the coach and his assistants will show the men the main points in wrestling. Any one interested in this form of sport should get in touch with Kirker at the Y or go down on a Tuesday or Thursday and join the class.

Kirker is also planning to have a booster basketball game, the funds received from this game going towards buying a large wrestling mat so that New Castle will have good equipment when the large meet is held here.

At present the following men are the ones who are on the team, and expect to take a part in the training and meet if possible: Leo Burnstine, John Borio, Lewis Pearl, "Nick" George, E. C. Carter, M. Panella, A. DeCarvo, John Dudash, Carl Sweet, Harman Rhodes, Jack Humes, Frank Coen, John Gorgacz.

Los Angeles Is Bathtub City

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—Los Angeles has more tubs and showers for bathing purposes than any other city in the world.

This was the text of a communication sent to Dr. George Parish, health commissioner, by M. S. Siegel of the Bureau of Housing and Sanitation the other day.

Siegel's conclusion is based on the strict observance of the state housing and sanitation laws which provide for baths in every home and in a majority of business establishments.

Even in Los Angeles' chinatown there are bath tubs, Siegel declares.

Siegel in his letter also intimates that the baths both in Chinatown and elsewhere are regularly used, basing this conclusion on the huge daily cansumption of water.

If it takes all kinds of people to make a world, this world certainly is well made.

Chairman William S. Lewis has called a special meeting of the committee of Harry L. McBride post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, having charge of the production of "Bimbo". The post will present this musical comedy of the South Sea islands at the cathedral on Thursday and Friday nights of this week. The cast is composed entirely of the very best local talent obtainable. Rehearsals have been under way for some time and there is no doubt concerning the ability of the cast to put the show over.

Mr. Lewis desires that the committee be at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 this evening.

German Doctors Are Complaining

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Jan. 24.—Germany is over-supplied with physicians. Medical students, now enrolled in German universities, have little chance of large practices in the future, unless their ability is quit unusual.

Physicians complain that even today there are not enough patients to go around and many German doctors, who are able practitioners, are having hard times, especially in the larger cities where physicians are particularly numerous.

Many doctors in Berlin and elsewhere have given up their practice altogether during the last few years and have gone into business or some other profession such as journalism.

Even if you know her face well don't get too familiar with it.

Vienna Students Makes Profits With Skeletons

(International News Service)
VIENNA Jan. 24.—Skeletons are now an item of importance among Austrian exports. The postal authorities for the last year have noticed numbers of skeletons were being sent from Austria to America and England. They investigated and found that a group of Viennese medical students were exporting scores of complete skeletons, skulls, arms, etc., to Universities and doctors of other countries and making quite a nice profit.

The skeletons for the most part were obtained legitimately, by purchase from local students and professors or from disused cemeteries, now being dismantled by order of the Socialist government of Vienna. Many Viennese students and doctors nowdays are glad to sell their eerie exhibits as they feel more than any other class the pinch of hard times.

A complete skeleton, according to the present price list is sold for about thirty dollars, carriage unpaid, but separate parts may be bought as cheaply as ten cents.

Allum's Seat Likely To Remain Vacant

No Special Election In Mercer County For Representative, Unless Demanded

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 24.—There will be no special election held to fill the vacancy in the state assembly from Mercer county caused by the death of Representative Edward L. Allum unless the Mercer county voters demand such an election.

Arriving here Saturday with the body of Mr. Allum, who died Thursday in Harrisburg, Carl E. Marstellar, the remaining Mercer county assemblyman, made that announcement on authority of Eugene White chief clerk of the house.

Under the rules of the house, Mr. Allum's estate will receive his salary in full for the remainder of the term. Decision to withhold a writ for a special election was taken to save the county a heavy expense, Mr. Marstellar explained.
